INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

Passage of the Deficiency Bill in the Senate.

Remarkable Series of the Vote Postponing Action on English Bill—Uncertainty as to the Result—Bills Passed Relating to Rubber Patent Extensions, &c., &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 25.

The city is filled with rumors to-day relative to the result of the vote to-morrow. One of the most important is, that a new defection on the part of Southern anti-Lecompton Democrats will occur, which threatens a complete dissolution of party harmony. On the other hand, doubts are circulating relative to the course of the Anti-Lecompton men, including even Messrs. of Illinois. Both sides are uncertainly at sea.

A caucus, including Evans and a dozen others, has been held in a room at the Capitol, but the conclusions are not known.

There has never been any reason to doubt the course of Senator DOUGLAS. He is to follow CLAY in the Senate, in opposition to the bill.

The progression of the Supplemental in the House is to prevent an opportunity for debate, and that of the Democrats is to prevent it.

The action of the Democratic Senators has been prepared for the English bill by the President telling Green and Bigler to take anything to get the question out of the way.

Collector Thomas, Senator Soulé, and other parties connected with the Port Schuyler sale, are here again. Senator Evans was examined yesterday by the Committee, and others are to be examined to-morrow.

A change of votes on the Deficiency Bill to a considerable extent, will take place in the House, in consequence of the Senate amendments.

A combination of Anti-Rubber Patent Interests has arrived here from New-York, to defeat the extension of the Hayward and Chaffee Patent before the Committee. O.

[Some one therefore was not Associated press.]

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 24.

The Democratic Senators have unanimously determined to sustain the report of the Committee of Conference on Kansas with the exception of Messrs Douglas, Green and Bennett, who are still to stand against the measure.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 25.

The Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means will shortly introduce a proposition for the meeting of the next session of Congress on the first Monday in November, being of the opinion that it will be necessary to remodel or modify the tariff and revenue system.

The reporting back by Mr. JOHN CRESWELL, from the Committee on Commerce, of the various River and Harbor improvements, introduced, and referred to that Committee, and his asking that the Committee be discharged from the further consideration thereof, has been very generally erroneously construed as an adverse report upon them; but they were reported back only to relieve the Committee in a parliamentary manner from each, when they had reported a general bill, including the whole; and so Mr. CRESWELL explained the proceeding when making the report.

There is little, if any, doubt that the Administration will soon ask the authorization of a loan of thirty millions of dollars to be applied, in part, to the redemption of the Treasury notes.

The friends of the new Kansas measure are entirely sanguine of its success during the present week. Messrs. DOUGLAS, BRIGHT and BENNETT are not only opposed to it, but are actively endeavoring to effect its defeat.

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of JOHN CADWALADER to the Pennsylvania Judgeship, made vacant by the death of Judge KANE. The former gentleman was removed some from a misapprehension.

XXXVth CONGRESS.....First Session.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 24.

Mr. GRAHAM, of New-York, presented a petition from JAMES C. JEWETT, asking that a demand be made on the Government of Portugal for non-fulfillment of its engagement in reference to the Lobos Islands. Referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. YULEE, of Florida, presented a petition from EDWARD D. TRUPP for aid to test his "cold-water steam engine." Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. GWIN, of California, by leave, brought in his bill for securing the better protection of the lives of passengers on board steamers. Referred to the Postal Committee.

The Deficiency bill was taken up, and Mr. FESSENDEN's amendment voted on and lost by 23 against 20.

Mr. HAMLIN, of Iowa, moved to strike from the bill from the one hundred and twenty-ninth to the one hundred and thirty-fifth line.

A motion that any unexpended appropriation on the 30th of June, 1858, be returned to the surplus fund was lost by a vote of 16 to 24.

Mr. WADE, of Ohio, spoke on the general question of the Utah war. He said what would be cowardice in the case of a great war might be policy in the case of a tribe like the Mormons. He wished the President had invoked the principle of popular sovereignty and applied it to that people. Let them regulate their own affairs, and we would yet make peace with them on the best terms; a victory over them would be barren. He would repeal the Territorial law, and indeed would never have granted it, knowing as we did that they believed in a theocracy incompatible with republican institutions. Had we have let them alone, schisms would have divided them, but having sent the army would consolidate them, and make their counsels harmonious. He was opposed to the Mormon tenets, but Mormonism has not yet trodden the rights of any one outside of their own circle. Force never converted a nation, but the "blood of martyrs was the seed of the Church."

Mr. HALE, of New-Hampshire, and Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, respectively defined their positions in respect to their vote.

Finally, the bill was read a third time, and the question put—Shall the bill pass?

The bill passed by yeas 28, nays 19, as follows:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 24.

Mr. STEPHENS thought Monday two weeks was the day of all the stages of the Session to the consideration of the report of the Committee of Conference on the Kansas bill. He asked, as a personal favor to himself, as he wished to be absent, owing to the state of his health, that all agree that a vote be taken next Wednesday.

Mr. CRESWELL said the report of the Committee is an entirely new one. He desired to leave the city on Monday, and others propose leaving this evening. As it was impossible for him to return on Wednesday next, he thought the subject had better be voted on the second Monday in May.

Mr. STEPHENS remarked that he only wanted a fair understanding.

Mr. HILL explained, that in moving the postponement of the report till the second Monday in May, he did so at the suggestion of certain personal, but not political friends.

Mr. CLAY, of Kentucky, said that he, himself, wanted to go home to attend to his personal affairs, but this was the first time that he had known, in the history of public legislation, that the affairs of a great country should be postponed to meet the private wishes of gentlemen. He presumed that the mind of every gentleman was made up, and the sooner the vote was taken the better for the peace and quiet of the country.

Mr. MONTGOMERY, of Pennsylvania, said that private affairs demanded his presence at home, and that no injury could result by the postponement of the subject until the second Monday of May.

The question was then taken on the motion of Mr. HARRIS, of Illinois, to reconsider the vote by which the postponement to that time was fixed, and to lay that motion on the table.

The motion was decided affirmatively, by Yeas 105, against Nays 101, as follows:

NAYS—Messrs. Adrain, Ahl, Anderson, Atkins, Avery, Barksdale, Bishop, Bocock, Bowie, Boyce, Branch, Burnett, Burns, Caruthers, Caskie, Clark of Mo., Clay, Clemens, Clingman, Cobb, John Cochrane, Cockerill, Corning, Craig of Mo., Craig of N. C., Crawford, Curry, Davidson, Dewart, Edmundson, Elliott, English, Eustis, Faulkner, Florence, Foley, Garnett, Goode, Greenwood, Gregg, Groesbeck, Hall of Ohio, Hatch, Hawkins, Hopkins, Houston, Hughes, Huyler, Jackson, Jenkins, Jewett, Jones of Tenn., J. Glancy Jones, Owen Jones, Keitt, Kelly, Letcher, Maclay, McQueen, Mason, Maynard, Miles, Miller, Millson, Moore, Niblack, Nichols, Ruffner, Phelps, Phillips, Ready, Reagan, Reilley, Ruffin, Russell, Sandidge, Savage, Scales, Scott, Searing, Seward, Shaw of N. C., Sickles, Singleton, Smith of Va., Stephens, Stephenson, Talbot, Ward, Warren, Watkins, White, Whitley, Winslow, Woodson, Worthington, Wright of Ga., Wright of Tenn., Zollicoffer.

The question then recurred on agreeing to the original motion for postponement, as amended, by inserting the second Monday in May.

Disagreed to—Yeas, 46; Nays, 155.

Negatived—89 against 103. If this had been seconded, the House would have been brought to a vote on the report of the Committee of Conference.

Mr. DEWART, of Pennsylvania, moved an adjournment, which was agreed to—106 against 99.

The vote, on seconding Mr. HUGHES' demand for the previous question was taken by tellers, hence there is no record. If it had been seconded it would have cut off the motion for postponement, according to the Speaker's decision, and brought the House to a direct vote on the report. Each party seemed uncertain as to its real strength, and hence the adjournment.

The final question, on the motion as amended, to postpone the Kansas report of the Conference Committee until the second Monday in May, was pending when the House adjourned. It will come up again at its next meeting.

Opinions in regard to Lecompton—A Pregnant Idea from Senator Wilson—Important Revenue Case—Connection of the Mormons and Indians in Oregon.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 24, 1858.

The opinion expressed by Senator WILSON, that the passage of the modified Kansas bill is but a question on what day of the session it shall pass, seems to be the animating idea which sustains the Democratic leaders under what are popularly considered a succession of defeats. If they were so in reality, you should say of the Democrats as SANTA ANNA did of TAYLOR, that they don't seem to know when they are beaten; but it is evidently yet to be seen whether, as Gen. WILSON thinks, the battle is already virtually decided in favor of the Administration forces, or whether the checks with which they have met are to be followed up by a final defeat. If the latter, the consequences to the Democracy are somewhat disastrous; if the contrary, it will necessitate the adoption of quite a new set of weapons by the Republicans to recover them from the damaging effects of being beaten on a platform which a portion of them do not love too well. One of the allegations which will be made in debate in the Senate, against the supporters of the English proposition is, that by providing to admit Kansas immediately, if she adopt the Lecompton Constitution, and postponing her admission, if she reject it, until her population reaches ninety-three odd thousand, they discriminate in favor of Slavery, and say in effect, that the population which is sufficient to make a Slave State of, is not large enough to entitle a Free State to admission. It is even foreshadowed that if Kansas should come immediately in under the Lecompton Constitution, the seat of every Member of Congress elected to represent that State might be contested on the ground that the population did not warrant the admission of a member; but as it is quite likely that the first member who is elected under the State organization will be a Republican, or at least a member of the Opposition, it does not seem probable that this retaliatory process could be carried quite so far.

Senator WILSON says that one great difficulty encountered in this fight against Lecompton, has been the want of a perfectly cordial welcome on the part of the Republicans in some of the Congressional districts, to the Democrats in Congress who evinced a disposition to join them in opposition to that programme. In several cases, where Democratic members started out against Lecompton, and continued against it until the proposition of Mr. ENGLISH was brought forward, he believes they would have stood by to the end if they had been cordially welcomed and sustained by the Republican Party in their respective districts, instead of having been received with a degree of lukewarmness, based on a jealousy of their reflection. Senator WILSON condemns this spirit as the means of depriving the Opposition of strength which they might have had if the Anti-Lecompton Democrats had all been received at home with the same cordiality with which they were received by the Republicans in Congress. I relate these opinions, not as my own, but as those of Senator WILSON: you can yourself perceive what force they have.

A somewhat important and interesting case, involving the construction of the provision in the Tariff Act of 1857, directing the assessment of duties on merchandise according to its market value at the place of export at the time of its exportation, is now on argument in the Supreme Court of the United States. Messrs. SAMPSON & TAPPAN, merchants of Boston, in 1854, purchased at Manila a cargo of hemp, which was loaded between the 23d of June and 1st of July of that year. The vessel was cleared and ready for sea on the latter day, but the wind being ahead she could not sail until the next, which was Sunday. The mate objected to sailing on Sunday, so the vessel did not go to sea until Monday, the 3d of July. Meanwhile, on Sunday, the overland mail from England arrived at Manila, bringing news of the declaration of war with Russia, in consequence of which hemp rose in value in the Manila market on Monday 10 per cent. On the arrival of the cargo at Boston the Collector appraised it, under direction of Government, at the enhanced value of ten per cent., ruling on Monday, 3d, compelling the payment of some $15,000 duty above what could have been levied on an appraisement of the cargo when it was loaded and ready for sea. Messrs. SAMPSON & TAPPAN bring suit against C. H. PARKER, late Collector, to recover back the additional duty; and A. W. GARWOOD, Esq., of New-York, is arguing the case before the Court. The decision will doubtless be interesting to the mercantile community.

The probabilities of another Indian War in Oregon, instigated by the Mormons, as briefly alluded to by me in a telegram to the TIMES, are not founded on baseless suppositions. Colonel FARRAR, Attorney-General of Oregon, was engaged in the last Indian War, and went through numerous personal perils in it, and he speaks knowingly of the disposition of the Indian tribes who took part in those hostilities. He says they still entertain bitterly hostile feelings towards the Oregonians, or as they call the Americans, "Boston;" and that they have been made most friendly-disposed to the Mormons by presents from them and by the intrigues of Mormon emissaries, who have been busy among them. The fact that the Indians were so abundantly supplied with arms and ammunition in the former war was a matter of great surprise at the time, but it is now satisfactorily known that these materials were in a great measure supplied, as the war is believed to have been instigated, by the Mormons. The Indians regard these people as their friends, and as an entirely distinct nation; and they have an idea also that they are much more powerful than either the "Bostons," or "King George's men," as the English are sometimes called by these deluded savages. It is the nature of an Indian to espouse the side he believes to be the strongest, and having this mistaken idea of the Mormon strength, therefore, aside from the hostile spirit engendered in the former war, the Indians would be most likely to take the field on the side of BRIGHAM YOUNG, if at all; but, in addition to this is the fact that they are actually discussing the idea of recommencing hostilities, and are measuring their strength with that design. It is considered fortunate that, in the late war, the enormous herds of horses and cattle owned by many of the wealthy Indians, were dispersed and destroyed, for, although they utterly remember their loss, they have no longer the ability to harm as they once had. It would be a wise thing for our Government to take some steps in anticipation of what may come. O.

From the Sing Sing Chronicle.

One evening last week, just as the bell of the Sing Sing Prison was ringing "all right," and most of the officers were about taking their departure from the Institution, a little girl about seven years of age entered the Warden's office. On being questioned as to her name and errand, she said that her name was AGNES W——, and that she had "come all the way from New-York to see her father, whom her mother had told her was in Prison at Sing Sing." The intelligent and mournful looks of the child soon enlisted the sympathy of the Warden and other officers, and it was at once decided to gratify the wishes of the little heroine.

But a difficulty at once arose—there being no less than four convicts bearing the same name as the father, but this difficulty was soon overcome by the little girl herself.

She said that her father was a cooper by trade, and it became apparent at once that the J—— W—— employed in the "Shook Shop" was the looked for father. He was soon brought from his cell to the office, and the scene which took place between the convict father and his child will not be soon forgotten by those who witnessed it. Accustomed as the officers are to affecting scenes between the convicts and their relatives, this one was too much for their feelings, and a tear stood in the eye of many of those stout hearted men.

The story of little AGNES to her father was "that her mother was very poor, lived out at service, and could not come to see him, so she thought she would come herself; that she left New-York that morning without one cent of money—walked through the City till she came to the railroad that some boys told her passed through Sing Sing; that she crept in one of the cars and hid herself away, and, when found by the conductor, he allowed her to ride all the way up for nothing, and that some of the boys in the village told her the way to the Prison."

After spending some time with her father, she was kindly taken care of for the night by one of our citizens, and the next morning a lady of our village accompanied her to New-York, and, had her placed in an asylum devoted as a home to the children of the destitute, where she will be taken care of, and properly and kindly treated.

Mob-Law in Peoria, Ill.—Descent upon Disreputable Houses.

From the Chicago Times.

On Sunday, the 18th, a mob assembled in Peoria and proceeded to demolish several houses of ill-fame and drive their inmates into the streets. No effort was made by the police authorities to quell the disturbance; but on the contrary, the Mayor in person appears to have winked at the unlawful proceedings. The mob first proceeded to a house kept by a person named CLEVELAND, where, after breaking the windows and doors, a fire engine was brought, and the house flooded with water. This drove out the inmates. The mob then entered, carried out the furniture, embracing sofas, pianos, of which there were two very costly ones, chairs, trunks, bedding and every available article, and piling it up, set fire to it and burned it to ashes. The house was completely riddled and sacked, and the property destroyed in this single instance was not less that $5,000.

Eight or ten other houses were treated in a similar manner, regardless of the remonstrances of their owners, who, in some instances, had let them without knowing the character of their tenants. The work of destruction was continued on Sunday night and Monday, and, although by the Mayor's order, a military company was in reserve, such was the character of the mob and those who countenanced the proceedings, that no opposition to the proceedings was made. The cyprians thus turned into the streets, have, most of them, fled to Chicago.

MURDER AND ROBBERY IN PHILADELPHIA.—About seven o'clock this morning the body of a genteelly dressed man was found floating in the Schuylkill, under Market-street bridge. The remains were towed into Arch-street wharf, and Coroner FARRAN was sent for to hold an inquest. That official immediately proceeded to the spot, and upon examining the body he was satisfied that a murder had been committed.

The deceased had been in the water for some time, and it was, of course, difficult to form an accurate judgment as to his age. It was thought, however, he was a man about thirty years of age. He was about five feet eight and a half, or nine inches, in height, was clad in a black cloth dress coat, a figured woolen vest with fancy buttons, and cassimere pants. His throat was cut from ear to ear, his nose was broken, and both eyes were blackened.

The body has been identified as the remains of Mr. JOHN E. CLARK. The deceased was engaged in business in the upper part of the city, and on Saturday, the 3d inst., he left his store to make a deposit of $440 in bank.

The deposit was not made, and there is scarcely a doubt the murder was committed for the purpose of robbing him of this money.

HOMICIDE AT THE BRANDRETH HOUSE.

Coroner's Inquest and Verdict of the Jury.

A WAITER SHOT---NOBODY HELD FOR IT.

BENJAMIN GRAHAM, a colored waiter at the Brandreth House, corner of Broadway and Canal-street, was shot on Friday evening at 10 o'clock by one of the guests of the house, and almost instantly died. William J. Eschmann and Henry Brown, who occupied room No. 143, ordered some drinks for themselves and two friends at their room. Graham took the drinks to the room, and about a minute afterwards three of the inmates of the room ran down stairs into the street, saying that one of the hotel waiters had been shot. Mr. Morris, the night clerk, at once went to room No. 143, and there saw the deceased lying dead on the floor in a pool of blood, and Eschmann standing over him. Eschmann stated that Graham attempted to snatch a revolver from his hand, when one of the barrels accidentally went off, the ball hitting him (the deceased) in the left groin. The ball severed the femoral artery, and death ensued from the hemorrhage.

Captain Hutchings, of the Fifth Ward, was directly apprised of the homicide, and arrested Eschmann. In a few minutes Brown returned, and he was arrested also. The other two men who were in the room when the shooting occurred were ascertained to be Vincent de Lorenzo, a barber at the St. Nicholas Hotel, and Joseph Ward, a barber at the Metropolitan Hotel. These parties were soon arrested, and they together with Eschmann and Brown, were taken to the Fifth Ward Hotel and locked up for the night to await the Coroner's investigation in the case.

Coroner COZZENS held the inquest Saturday afternoon. The following was the evidence taken:

Joseph Ward, sworn—I reside at No. 36 White-street; I am by profession a barber; I went to Cozzens' Hotel to look for Mr. Brown and Mr. Eschmann; I have known Brown for six months; Brown was a night watchman at the International Hotel; I only know Mr. Eschmann by his visiting my shop; when I came to Cozzens' Hotel I walked up to Mr. Eschmann's room; I knocked at the door; Mr. Eschmann was lying on the bed; he invited me in; there was no one else in the room; he said he had been asleep; the gas was not lighted; I asked him if I should light it; he said "yes;" I asked him how he was; he said "he was well;" he had been down town all day and felt fatigued; we then conversed for some time together; I asked him when he thought he would go to Europe; he told me he was going South first, and on his return he should go to Europe; I then left the room and wished him good night; I went to the International Hotel to settle accounts for the day; I went then to the office for the key of the barber's shop; I unlocked the door and went in, took the receipts out of the drawer and left; just as I was about locking the door, one of my men came and told me Mr. Brown had been to see me; I asked him if he knew what he wanted to see me for; he said no; so I returned again to Cozzens' Hotel; I went to Mr. Eschmann's room; I saw him still lying on the bed; no one else was in the room; I asked him if he knew what Mr. Brown wanted to see me about; he said, "I suppose he wants something from you, as he is going away to-morrow;" he asked me to take a cigar, and told me to ring the bell; I did so, and the waiter came up; he then asked me if I would take something to drink; I said I would; he brought us two whisky punches; I told him I did not take whisky, when Eschmann said, "I did not order whisky punches;" the waiter said he understood he did; Eschmann said, "We will drink it;" and the waiter left; I rang the bell, and the waiter came up again; he told the waiter he might drink these punches, and tell the bartender to send up brandy punches; we were drinking the punches when Mr. Brown entered; he took a seat, and said he had been looking for me, and said he had been down to my house for a shawl he had lent me; Mr. Eschmann asked Mr. Brown to have something to drink; he declined; at that moment the waiter entered with a card; Mr. Eschmann told the waiter to bring the gentleman up; a Mr. Vincent De Lorenzo entered; Mr. Eschmann then said, "Well, gentlemen, what will you have to drink;" I told him I had not finished my glass; he told me to do so and have something more; the waiter brought up four brandy punches; we drank each other's health; myself and Mr. Brown were sitting on Mr Eschmann's bed, and Vincent De Lorenzo was sitting on the opposite bed; Mr. Eschmann then asked for a light, which the waiter gave us all round; Mr. Eschmann then got up and lighted his cigar; I was then talking to Mr. Brown and Lorenzo; Mr. Eschmann then asked the waiter for another light; Mr. Eschmann and the waiter were playing round the room; I saw a pistol on the sideboard; Mr. Eschmann took hold of the pistol and went towards his valise, as if he intended to put it up; I was joking with Mr. Brown when the waiter and Mr. Eschmann were talking; I said to Mr. Brown, "How that fellow is fooling the waiter;" I turned my head, and immediately afterwards I heard the report of the pistol; I looked round and saw deceased fall on the floor, and saw Eschmann lift him up, and put him on the bed; he took the glass of brandy from my hand, and gave some brandy to the waiter; the waiter cried out two or three times, "Oh, God!" Brown and Lorenzo then went out; Eschmann was still holding deceased, with a glass of brandy in his hand; I did not think he was shot until I saw the blood on his fingers; Eschmann looked up and said, "Oh, God! Oh, God!" I left the room, went down stairs, and went directly home; one of the waiters and some others entered the room as I went out; an officer came to my house soon afterwards, and said he wanted me; I went with him, telling my wife not to be alarmed, as Mr. Eschmann's pistol went off accidentally; I am positive that I cannot recollect any expressions made use of by Eschmann other than I have already testified to; Eschmann showed every disposition to assist the deceased, and did not attempt to leave the room while I was there.

Vincent de Lorenzo deposed that he went to the Brandreth House about nine and three-quarters o'clock; he had been in Mr. Eschmann's room about ten minutes when he saw him and the waiter scuffling together; the waiter tried to get the pistol, when it went off.

C. S. Gilson, clerk at the International Hotel, deposed that Mr. Eschmann boarded at that hotel for three weeks; Eschmann threatened to shoot one of the servants while at the hotel, and the witness told him he must quit the establishment.

Charles Smith, bar-keeper at the Brandreth, deposed that the deceased said something about being shot, in a joking manner, when he came down stairs for the brandy punches; Eschmann did not visit the bar-room more frequently than any other guest.

Charles Turner, a waiter in the Brandreth House, was examined at some length, but no evidence of any importance was elicited.

Henry James Brown deposed that he was formerly night-clerk at the International Hotel; he was in company with Eschmann in his room, on Friday night, when the deceased was shot; he heard no angry words; Mr. Eschmann and deceased appeared to have been joking together when the pistol went off; Eschmann said, "I will fire the pistol off if you don't bring up the drinks quick;" Eschmann then said, "Don't take hold of the pistol," when it immediately exploded.

Drs. Finnell, Welsje and Bower, who made the post mortem examination of the body, testified that they found the body in room No. 143 laying on the bed; his clothes were saturated with blood and also the carpet on the floor beneath him; after stripping the body we found a wound in the left inguinal region; it was situated four inches below the anterior superior spinous process of the ilium, and four inches from the mestial line; this wound was five inches in depth, passing obliquely from left to right; the ballet in its course passed through the femoral artery and vein, the muscles of the thigh, fracturing the pubic bone and lodging in the spongy portion of the urethra. They gave it as their opinion that death was caused by hemorrhage from the femoral artery, the result of a gun-shot wound in the thigh.

The case was here given to the Jury, who, after a brief deliberation, rendered the following

VERDICT:

We find that BENJAMIN GRAHAM came to his death by hemorrhage from the femoral artery by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of WM. J. G. ESCHMANN, April 23, 1858.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Monday was the last day of the April Term of this Court. The room was crowded with the relatives and friends of the numerous prisoners who were to be tried, and with lawyers anxious to make applications for mercy on behalf of their convicted clients. The business of these trials was unusual beyond precedent, and among the cases were nine charges of assault and battery with dangerous weapons, with intent to kill, have been tried.

Patrick Gray, of Fifty Whites, charged with false pretences, was discharged on the decision of Ex-Recorder Tallmadge, who quashed the indictment. He will be tried next term, at the discretion of the District Attorney.

Thomas Hughes, convicted of assaulting a sailor in the Bowery, and robbing him, was sentenced to ten years in the State Prison.

Thomas Rich, indicted for manslaughter in the third degree, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree. He killed Dennis O'Connel in a fight in Cherry-st. The evidence showed that O'Connel had previously assaulted him, and the foreman of the Jury interrogated with the Recorder for a decent sentence. His Honor accordingly sent him to the State Prison for two years only. The widow of O'Connel was in Court, and when the wife of the prisoner, bearing in her arms an infant of six weeks old, took place his arrest. On hearing the light sentence pronounced by the Court, Mrs. O'Connel fainted, and Mrs. Loughlin, apparently with the purpose of tearing the child from her grasp. Fortunately her design was frustrated by the instant interposition of the by-standers, and the assailant, raving like a crazy woman, was removed from the Court.

Bernard Rochan, convicted of stabbing Joseph Bohn in the larger beer saloon No. 52 Bowery, in consequence of the Jury's recommendation to mercy, was sentenced only to one year in the Penitentiary. The prisoner was also sentenced to direct himself to the Sheriff's clerkship, and commit other acts offensive to humanity; and the Recorder said that, but for the recommendation of the Jury, he would have sent him to the State Prison for a long term of years.

Thomas Dunbold, convicted of burglary in the third degree, was sentenced to the State Prison for five years. He is an old offender, having already served two years and six months in the same institution. Andrew Gewinger, convicted with him for the same offence, was remanded for sentence to the next term.

James Hughes, convicted of assault and battery on William Thomas, was brought up for sentence. From his conviction the complainant has entertained doubts whether it was Hughes who assaulted him. Affidavits, moreover, were presented to the Court by eye-witnesses of the affray, stating that Hughes had taken no part therein. Under these circumstances, the Recorder, of course, discharged the defendant.

Joseph Rich, convicted of firing a pistol at a bar-tender who demanded payment for drinks he had taken, was sentenced to two years in the State Prison.

Peter Frank Dubiler, convicted of stabbing a man in Chatham-st., was sentenced to two years and six months in the State Prison, the Recorder remarking that he was determined to put a stop to the continual firing of pistols in New-York, which, he said, endangered life scarcely safe at any time in the City. He would try the effect of rather light sentences at first, but if any more such cases were brought before him he would continue to increase the punishment so as to terrify, if possible, the lawless rowdies who infest the streets were infested.

Ludwig Wright, a young man, almost in the last stage of consumption, who had pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods, was, in consequence of his sickness, sentenced to thirty days in the City Prison.

Henry H. Hetzner was sent to the City Prison for thirty days for his attempt to commit larceny.

Henry W. Meyer pleaded guilty to an assault and battery on John Green, and was sentenced to six months in the Penitentiary.

Michael Maloney pleaded guilty to an assault, and was sent to the Penitentiary for four months.

John Riley, for an assault on Samuel Gray, was sent to the Penitentiary for four months.

Charles Celler, for an assault on Alexander B. Fetters in an beer saloon, was fined $25. Celler had a good prosecution, and was tried three times before a jury, could not be induced to convict him.

Patrick McCarthy, for assaulting Henry Dennison, was sent to the Penitentiary, was also fined $25.

Henry Jones, who pleaded guilty to forgery in the fourth degree, was sentenced to the State Prison for two years.

In the case of John H. Briggs, convicted at the Court of Special Sessions of assaulting a woman, and sentenced to 30 days in the City Prison, and who appealed against the sentence to the General Sessions, the Recorder affirmed the judgment of the Special Court, and Briggs was removed to custody.

William Johnson, who pleaded guilty to an attempt to commit grand larceny, at the intercession of his employer, was sentenced only to six months in the Penitentiary.

The cases of Mason Thomas, alias Oscar Thomas, and Henry Spalding, convicted of kidnapping the negro Jim Anderson, and selling him as a slave in Virginia, were then taken up. Ex-Attorney-General Clarke and Ex-Judge Stuart argued for the defendants, and Mr. Lynde, secretary to a motion for a new trial. The Recorder said he would render a decision this day of next term.

The prisoners were remanded for sentence till the last day, to give time for inquiries to be made respecting them.

The Grand Jury presented a batch of indictments, and were discharged with the thanks of the Court. They did not indict Mr. Devlin.

The Court then adjourned till Monday, May 3.

The Heney Case—Motion for a Non-suit Granted.

The suit of James Heney and Alicia C. Heney vs. The Sunday Democrat Society, was brought to a sudden termination, in the Circuit, before Judge Mitchell, on Thursday.

The case was adjourned on Thursday, to give the Court time to consider a motion, made by the defendant's counsel, for a non-suit, which was granted, upon the grounds set forth in the following opinion, given yesterday:

The plaintiffs claim to recover the possession of certain lands in the city of Brooklyn, mentioned in the complaint, as the heirs-at-law of Cornelius Henry, now in the possession of the defendants, and which he died seized on the 3d of May, 1846. It appears from the evidence that he emigrated to this country from Ireland about time during the latter part of the first century, and was naturalized as a citizen of the United States on the 14th of January, 1826. He acquired title to the lands in question in 1836. The plaintiffs have given some evidence tending to show that they are his heirs-at-law, which the defendants propose to disprove if the case proceeds further. Henry left no children, and I shall assume for the purposes of this decision that plaintiffs are his heirs-at-law. They are both natives of Ireland, and came to New-York in the year 1835, where they have since resided.

Henry was naturalized as a citizen of the United States on Dec. 21, 1846, his declaration of intentions having been filed Dec. 21, 1842, and the plaintiff claim that became a citizen of the United States on May 3, 1842. At this stage of the case the plaintiff must establish the lands by descent from Cornelius Henry, who was a citizen at the time of his decease, they being aliens at the time. The defendants moved for a non-suit, upon the ground that the plaintiff should prove that Henry died seized in fee, and that he was a citizen to take lands by descent, which assumes to possess in the condition of the plaintiff, is not a fact any of the statutes to which I am referred. It is not worth while to advert to the various acts which have been passed to enable persons of foreign birth to take and hold real property, nor to speak of the patriotic Government to induce them to become citizens. It will be sufficient to consider very briefly some of the sections of the five statutes, which the learned counsel thinks decides the question.

The 6th section of the act of the 10th of April, 1843, enables the heirs-at-law of a resident alien to take and hold his estate by descent, whether they be citizens or aliens, requiring such of them as are not citizens of full age, to make and file with the Secretary of State the declaration mentioned in the first section. This provision cannot aid the plaintiffs, because the proprietor, whose estate they claim, was a citizen and not a resident alien at the time of his death. The 16th section of the same act provides for the discontinuance of proceedings against a resident alien to recover the property of his lands by the people of the State, upon filing the deposition mentioned in the first section, serving a copy upon the Attorney-General, and paying the costs of the action. The deposition required to be a declaration of his intention to become a citizen. I mention these two sections because they are part of upon the argument. They are certainly indicative of the liberal and enlightened policy of the State, but they afford no guide to the result we are seeking. Section 1st of the act of the 10th April, 1843, offers matter for more thoughtful consideration. It is in the words, "Any naturalized citizen of the United States who may have purchased and taken a conveyance for any lands or real estate that may have been devised, or to whom may would have descended, if he had been a citizen at the time of the death of the person last seized, before he was qualified to hold them by existing laws, may continue to hold the same in the manner as if he had been a citizen at the time of such purchase, devise or descent cast. And all conveyances by deed or mortgage heretofore made by such naturalized citizen are hereby confirmed. It is claimed by the learned counsel that these words apply to conveyances, descents cast and devises of lands generally, and without limitation as to time. It is doubtless true that the words of a statute should have a general application, unless there are words indicating a different intention. It is equally true also that all the words must have effect, if possible, otherwise the will of the law giver would not be observed. Now, should a prospective operation be given to the sections quoted, so as to affect grants, devises and descents cast after the passage of the acts, what are we to do with the words "may have purchased and taken a conveyance," and the words "to whom any lands may have been devised," and the words "to whom they would have descended?" In their grammatical construction this language has reference to time past, to events already consummated and accomplished, and not to the time to come, and to events to be consummated and accomplished thereafter.

These are certainly not the words usually employed in an act intended to have a general application and to operate prospectively as well as retrospectively. We are bound to suppose they were inserted in the section to effect some purpose and to express some intention, and that purpose and intention could have been none other, I think, but to confirm grants, descents and devises which have already been made, and not that to be made thereafter. The concluding words of the section declaring that conveyances "heretofore made by naturalized citizens are hereby confirmed" corroborates and gives color to the construction claimed by the counsel for the defendant. It will be useful to look at the second section of the same act in this connection. It is in these words:

"Any alien, who being at this time an actual resident of the United States may have heretofore purchased and taken a conveyance of any such lands and real estates, or to whom they may have been devised, or to whom they would have descended if he had been a citizen of the United States a, the time of the death of the persons last seized, and any such alien who may hereafter purchase and take a conveyance of any such lands or real estate, or to whom the same may be devised, or to whom the same would have descended, if he were a citizen, and who have already filed, or shall, within one year from the passage of this act, or within one year from the time of such purchase, devise or descent cast, file a deposition or affirmation specified in the 15th Sec., Art. 2, Chap. 1, Part. 2 of the R. S., may hold and convey such real estate, or such the term of five years from the passage of this act in the same manner as if he was a citizen of the State. And any conveyance by deed or mortgage heretofore made by any such alien is hereby declared in like manner valid."

The 1st section, it will be observed, applied to naturalized citizens, and not to aliens, and, as I had before said, provides for past grants, devises and descents cast. The second section, on the other hand, applies to aliens and not to naturalized citizens, and provides for grants, devises and descents cast, past as well as future, employing the words "lands heretofore purchased and hereafter purchased," and the words "to whom they may have been or may be devised," and "to whom they have descended or would descend," manifesting a very clear intention to distinguish between the past and the future in respect to the subjects upon which the statute was to operate. If I am right in respect to the limitation of the 1st section, then it cannot operate to remove the Common Law disability which attaches to the plaintiffs, because the descent was not cast by Mr. Henry's death until the 2d of May, 1846, nor can the 2d section have that effect, because the five years, within which the declaration might have been filed, elapsed before the death of Mr. Henry.

The plaintiffs have never been in possession of the estate, and this action is brought to put them in that possession. The learned counsel do not claim that they are entitled to the estate under the provisions of the second section, because they are clearly temporary. At the time of the descent cast, the plaintiffs were not naturalized citizens, so as to come within the class of persons mentioned in the last section, and seven months elapsed after the death of Mr. Henry, before one of them became naturalized. Assuming that Cornelius Henry died intestate, and no will has yet been produced, where was the title to the lands in the meantime? It certainly was not in the plaintiffs. The estate could not have been vested in them under the first section, because they were not naturalized citizens, and its language will be satisfied with nothing less. No one has said it was in abeyance. It must, therefore, I think, have been in the State. Its title did not depend upon an inquest of office or any other proceeding taken to resist its right, but upon the death of the person last seized intestate, and without heirs-at-law capable of taking by descent.

And it is true that the title to lands acquired by the State as a consequence of the defect of heirs of the person last seized capable of taking may be divested and transferred to an alien heir who becomes naturalized after the lapse of some months. This is the conclusion to which the construction put upon the act of 1843 by the plaintiffs brings us, and I am not prepared to adopt it. For if the title can be diverted and transferred to another by the mere act of a person incapable of taking at the time of the death of the person last seized, there is nothing to prevent the same result after the lapse of some years. A construction which the framers of the statutes never could have contemplated, and which I think its language does authorise.

Upon this construction no actual residence at the time of descent cast is necessary, for none is required by the statute, so that if it prevails, a person of foreign birth, not a citizen, but a resident of his native country at the time of the descent cast, may emigrate to this State, and, after the lapse of five years, qualify himself to take and hold an estate in land which, in the meantime, has vested in the State for defect of heirs. The law provides ample means to enable this class of persons to acquire and hold real property. They may at any time make the declaration required by the 15th section of the act of 1854, and file the same with the Secretary of State, and they will then become entitled to acquire and hold real property by grant, devise or descent cast, until the period arrives when they may become citizens.

I arrive at the conclusion that the plaintiffs are not now in a condition to assert a title to the estate of which Cornelius Henry died seized, with some hesitation. But I see no alternative, and I think it better for all concerned that the principal legal questions should be definitely settled before proceeding to investigate further the pedigree of the plaintiffs, the capacity of Mr. Henry to make a valid will, or the influence under which it may have been executed.

The motion for a non-suit is granted with a stay of proceedings to enable the plaintiffs to make a case or bill of exceptions, and I also think it right that the defendants should give to the plaintiffs a stipulation allowing them to read from the case to be settled the testimony of the witnesses already examined upon a new trial of the action, should one be granted.

NEW-YORK CITY.

Police Intelligence.

The Lottery and Gift Swindles.—The extent to which people in the country were being swindled by the various bogus lottery and swindling gift enterprises, which were in such successful operation before the Mayor's Police disturbed them, may be estimated from the number of letters returned to the Dead Letter Office, through the agency of the Mayor. Sergeant Birney reported on Saturday to the Mayor that he had taken out of the Post-Office, directed to the assumed proprietors of those gift and lottery concerns, 4,202 letters. These letters were directed as follows: C. E. Todd & Co., 2,725; Oliphant Bartlett & Co., 811; Joel Rogers & Son, 159; Nelson Hicks & Co., 182; G. W. Huntington & Co., 199; David Pierce & Son, 13; A. H. Wilford & Co., 64; James Ramerio, 51. Over $20,000 was inclosed in the above letters. The average number now taken daily from the office is about one hundred, whereas over two hundred were daily received two weeks ago. The newspapers are evidently putting fools on their guard.

Dishevelled Dirt Broken Up.—The Eleventh Ward Police made a descent Friday evening on a vile den, kept in the basement of No. 312 Stanton-street. They arrested all the girls attached to the establishment and lodged them in the Station-house. Some of the girls were only 13 years of age. Captain Squires says, on his return, that "a more disgusting specimen of early depravity could scarcely be conceived. They all huddled promiscuously together in a back basement, like beasts, and were surrounded with filth and dirt." A brother of two of the girls was the complainant. The Thirteenth Ward Police visited a disorderly house in the rear of No. 312 Stanton-street on Saturday night. It has always been a noted resort of whites and negroes of both sexes. Four women and two men were arrested and locked up to answer.

Pickpockets at the Orsini Demonstration.—The pickpockets arrested, Thursday evening, in the Park, and locked up in various station-houses for the night, were all discharged on Friday morning, excepting a young man calling himself William Henderson. Mr. William H. Prouty, of No. 60 Broadway, who had his pocket picked of a gold watch and chain, valued at $80, identified Henderson as the thief, and he was locked up by Justice Osborn for trial. The watch, however, could not be found. Henderson having passed it to an accomplice. Nothing was found on the other prisoners. Before being discharged they were taken to the Police head-quarters, and the daguerreotypes taken of those whose likenesses did not already grace the "Thieves' gallery."

Fight in a Grocery.—John Kilroy and Patrick Kilroy, two brothers, got into an altercation at a late hour Friday evening, in the liquor store on corner of Bethune and Washington streets, with Hugh McGovern, the proprietor. McGovern charged a boy with stealing an egg, and as the parties were all somewhat intoxicated, a lively squabble was kept up for some time between them. McGovern got the best of the fight, and injured Patrick, the elder brother, so seriously, that he was rendered insensible. He was removed to the City Hospital. John was badly beaten about the head. McGovern was arrested by the Ninth Ward Police, and locked up for examination.

A Bold and Desperate Thief.—A daring thief who gives his name as William Tompkins, on Friday morning snatched an overcoat hanging in front of the clothing store No. 146 Bowery, and ran off. Officer White of the Fourteenth Ward happened to witness the operation, and started in pursuit. Tompkins ran two or three blocks, when, seeing the officer was gaining upon him, he managed to kick off his shoes and continued his flight in his stocking feet. The officer overtook the fugitive in Lafayette-st. He was compelled to club him before he could bring him to a proper state of submission. The accused was taken before Justice Brennan and locked up for examination.

Burglaries.—A young man, giving his name as William Harrison, on Friday afternoon broke into the house of Mrs. Mary Davis, No. 443 Fourth-street, and stole $30 worth of jewelry and clothing. Mrs. Davis, who had been temporarily absent from the house, met the prisoner just as he was descending the steps. She at once called assistance, when Harrison was arrested, taken before Justice Brennan and committed in default of $1,000 bail. The stable of John Baker, corner of Fifty-third-street and Fourth-avenue, was entered on Friday morning, by burglars, and a horse stolen. No arrest.

Fell Down an Embankment.—Bridget Quinn fell down an embankment 20 feet in height, at the corner of Eighth-avenue and Sixty-second-street, on Friday morning, injuring herself severely. She was taken to the Station-house and her wounds dressed by a Police Surgeon. She stated that she lived in Flatbush, but had come to this City after her husband, who deserted her six months ago. She found her husband, but owing to his abuse of her, she left him and drank some brandy, under the influence of which she fell down the embankment.

A Gambling Victim.—Sebastian Krollman, a German residing at No. 47 Grand-street, on Saturday entered a complaint against two Germans named Hugh Dorego and Carl Meisel, charging them with winning $1,000 from him at "faro." The accused made desperate efforts to escape when the officers went to arrest them. They were taken before Justice Quackenbush and committed to await examination.

Female Depravity.—Two girls about 14 years of age were taken before the Mayor on Saturday, charged with selling daguerreotypes of themselves taken in a nude state. They were detained for examination, and an officer dispatched to arrest the daguerreotypist who took the pictures.

The Coffee Swindle.—Sergeant Birney and officer Van Aradale, of the Mayor's squad, arrived in the City Saturday, having in their custody Lewis Phillips, who is alleged to be one of the parties who carried on the extensive coffee swindling concern in this City under the assumed name of Oliphant, Bartlettes Co. Mayor Tiemann held the accused to bail in $2,000, to await his trial in the Court of Sessions.

Youthful Burglars.—Three lads, between 17 and 18 years of age, named John Reily alias Red Rover, and Thomas and James Webb, on Saturday night broke into the house of William Hays, in West-Thirty-seventh-street, and stole a quantity of lead pipe. They were carrying it away when Mr. Hays detected them, and had them arrested. They were all taken before Justice Quackenbush and committed for examination.

Lieut. Col. Marmaduke Reeves in Limbo.—The noted John W. McAlpin alias Lieut. Col. Marmaduke Reeves, of the British Army, is in the Tombs again, his bail having been surrendered. He was held, it will be remembered, to answer a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Nicaragua Transit Company.

Deserting a Vessel under Quarantine.—A warrant was issued Saturday morning for the arrest of Parker Creswell, charged with deserting the United States steamer Arctic, now lying at anchor in the Lower Quarantine. The warrant was placed in the hands of the Harbor Police for execution.

COMPLETELY PRESERVED
TO THE GREATEST AGE.

And who that is gray would not have it restored to former color; or bald, but would have the growth restored; or troubled with dandruff and itching, but would have it removed; or troubled with scrofula, scald head or other eruptions, but would be cured; or with sick headache, neuralgia, but would be cured? It will also remove all impurities from the face and skin. Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative will do all this—see circular and the following:

Ann Arbor, Nov. 6, 1856.

Prof. O. J. Wood—Dear Sir: I have heard much said of the wonderful effects of your Hair Restorative, but having been so often cheated by quackery and quack nostrums, hair dyes, &c., I was disposed to place your Restorative in the same category with the thousand and one loudly-trumpeted quack remedies, until I met you in Lawrence County some months since, when you gave me such assurance as induced the trial of your Restorative in my family—first by my good wife, whose hair had become very thin and quite white, and before exhausting one of your large bottles her hair was restored nearly to its original beautiful brown color, and had thickened and become beautiful and glossy upon and entirely over the head; she continues to use it, not simply because of its beautifying effects upon the hair, but because of its healthful influence upon the head and mind. Others of my family and friends are using your Restorative with the happiest effects; therefore, my skepticism and doubts in reference to its character and value are entirely removed, and I can and do most cordially and confidentially recommend its use by all who would have their hair restored from white or gray (by reason of sickness or age) to original color and beauty, and by all young persons who would have their hair beautiful and glossy.

Very truly and gratefully,
SOLOMON MANN.

Prof. Wood: It was a long time after I saw you at Blissfield before I got the bottle of Restorative for which you gave me an order upon your agent in Detroit, and when I got it we concluded to try it on Mrs. Mann's hair, as the surest test of its power. It has done all that you assured me it would do; and others of my family and friends, having witnessed its effects, are now using and recommending its use to others as entitled to the highest consideration you claim for it. Again, very respectfully and truly, yours,
SOLOMON MANN.

Carlyle, Ill., June 28, 1852.

I have used Prof. O. J. Wood's Hair Restorative, and have admired its wonderful effects. My hair was becoming, as I thought, premature grey, but by the use of his Restorative it has resumed its original color, and, I have no doubt, permanently so.

THOSE ELEGANT RIBBONS, &c.
Ribbons are all the fashion for ladies' dress-trimmings this season, and the more aristocratic modistes of the day, the French mantua-makers, and others who work only for the exquisitely elegant, keep LICHTENSTEIN busy supplying their large demands for his rare and beautiful stock just imported from Europe. That "new style of broad ribbon in different colors, with a rich watered center and an edge of embossed gold," so warmly referred to by Mrs. Stephens's Monthly is a great attraction at LI's fancy store. He has his unparalleled fancy fringes in the shade Madlingre, invaluable for Summer dresses, and his chicken gauzes, wrought with jet, for mantillas. Also, a pale bridal wear he of the lily of the valley, his peculiar blossoms of the sweetest fashion made in Velvet, for collars; not to forget the best dresses of chenille, mixed with gold and silver, and all his other wonderfully rich collection, which he sells at such astonishingly low prices, as it is determined that no lady shall leave his establishment dissatisfied. Ribbons for flounces, ribbons for dress sashes, ribbons for the sides of dresses, ribbons for bows, ribbons for sleeves, ribbons for everything, may be had at LICHTENSTEIN'S, No. 341 Broadway, and it is one admitted fact that their superior cannot be had, even for double the money, in Paris or London.

The Kansas Bill.

The Senate resumed in Congress on Saturday the consideration of the Kansas bill of the Conference Committee. The question to be taken is upon the motion to postpone the subject until the second Monday in May. That motion was carried on Friday, but on Saturday it was reconsidered, and, to prevent the question being taken again, the Home argument. The result to-day will test the relative strength of parties upon the bill itself. Our Washington correspondent reports that changes of sentiment in regard to it are occurring on both sides, and that the result is considered doubtful.

Mr. HOWARD, of Michigan, hit the vulnerable point of this bill when he said that it made the admission of a Slave State easier than that of a Free State. It requires the population to be larger for a Free State than for a Slave State. It allows 50,000 people under a slave-constitution to have a Representative in Congress, but denies that right to a Free State unless it has 100,000 inhabitants. So unjust a discrimination as this in favor of Slavery, is abhorrent to every fair-minded person. It strikes at the root of State equality and creates a direct and odious discrimination against freedom. It is the boldest and grossest possible form of Congressional intervention, and violates utterly the spirit and the letter of the Nebraska bill. It sets a precedent which may recoil upon its contrivers. It points out a way in which, they themselves being judges, future Congresses may discriminate against Slavery in Territories, Even if they cannot prohibit it.

Another point which seems to be entirely overlooked is the utter invalidity and imbecility of such a prohibition if it should be enacted. If the people of Kansas, under this bill, should reject the Lecompton Constitution, what is to prevent their forming another instantly and applying for admission to the Republican Congress which will be elected next November? Does this Congress expect to bind the next upon such a subject? Has not the repeal of the Missouri Compromise taught the country that one Congress can make no laws which another cannot repeal? The people of Kansas understand this matter perfectly and will not be influenced in the least in voting upon the Lecompton Constitution, by this empty threat of excluding them three or four years longer from the Union.

The marvel of this Compromise bill, as we said on Saturday, is that, while its motive and object are so palpably corrupt and contemptible, its provisions should be so empty and deceptive. The Lecomptonites seem to suppose that the passage of the bill, if they can secure it, is to give them a perfect and a permanent victory. They were never more mistaken in their lives. Both the wings of that faction have put their necks into a noose which they will feel when the rope is drawn. Mr. ENGLISH and his Northern confederates expect to be sustained at home by having secured a popular vote upon the Constitution. But they have nullified this, in the appreciation of the North, by the apparent bribery of their bill, and by requiring double the population for a Free State which they exact for a Slave State. This is a proposition which the constituents of Mr. ENGLISH will understand perfectly,—and one which they will not forgive very readily.

The land-grant clause amounts to nothing as a bribe for Kansas, but, it will amount to a good deal in Indiana as an attempted bribe on the part of Mr. ENGLISH. On the other hand, the Lecomptonites seem to have yielded to the sham of submitting only the land ordinance, and not the Constitution, to the popular vote. But they will soon find out that this is a delusion,—that the cat's tail must follow its head—and that a vote which decides two questions, is a vote upon them both, whatever it may be called. If they pass the bill, the Lecompton Constitution goes to the people of Kansas for approbation or rejection,—and in spite of their gilded bribes and their bubble threats, it will be rejected,—the people will again apply for admission, and the whole subject will be again before Congress.

There is one other abstract point which merits attention at the hands of those strict-constructionists who have insisted that Congress had no right to go beyond the Constitution of a new State, or to make any conditions of her admission. They are here proposing to make the admission of Kansas depend—not upon the character of the Constitution, not upon the will of the people in regard to it, nor upon anything in any way connected with it—but upon the question whether they will take certain public lands, or not. This is a precedent which it may not be quite safe for the Pro-Slavery Party to establish.

The whole scheme, though showy and on the surface ingenious, is shallow and worthless. If carried, it will neither help its friends nor hurt its foes. A more shamelessly unprincipled, and at the same time more imbecile measure has never been submitted to Congress. It will not make Kansas a Slave State, nor can it prevent or delay its becoming a Free State. It will kill its authors and damage its friends, and if they succeed in defeating it, its enemies will reap all the political advantage it could ever confer upon anybody.

"Caution to the North."

The Richmond Examiner, in consideration of the "prospect before us," administers "a caution to the North." That caution is, substantially, that we of the Free States should beware of driving our Southern brethren to desperation, as some of them have it seriously in mind to take an alarming step in the contingency of the Lecompton Bill being defeated. That contingency the Examiner thinks too probable. It "has not been sanguine" of its passage; and its defeat we are solemnly admonished, "is the very contingency upon which two or three of the Southern States stand pledged to call a convention to decide upon the steps proper to be taken to protect their rights in the Union, or to secure their independence out of the Union."

We receive the Examiner's caution in perfect good temper, but without the slightest trepidation. It was evidently expected to be alarming, and that journal will please excuse us for being cooler than perhaps prudence would justify. But to show that we are not wanting in grateful appreciation, we will venture to repay its caution in kind. Our Southern brethren will forgive us if we suggest the imprudence of committing [illegible] votes of 1856 and 1858. But any man who will take the trouble to recall the tone of thought and language which prevailed in New-York towards the end of the reign of Wood, will find reason, perhaps, for doubting whether the French must necessarily be a nation of slaves, because they preferred a single Emperor to a Briarean Assembly. The people of New-York certainly ought to be able to suppress by constitutional means the license of official pirates, and to secure protection of their own lives in their own streets. Yet we did not hesitate to talk about Vigilance Committees, and private patrols, and other arrangements as intrinsically anti-constitutional and anti-republican as the actual Government of France.

If we can imagine the whole administration of this country—the control, not of our Post-Offices and Customs only, but of our Mayors, our Selectmen, our State Governors, our churches, our schools, our roads and canals, our Courts of law, our banks, wholly gathered up into the hands of the Government at Washington, with a majority of Fernando Woods in the Senate, and a majority of Devlins in the House, and no remedy open for us save that of leaving our business and our homes, and marching en masse upon the capital, we can form some conception of the state in which France found herself under the Assembly in 1851—the state which she exchanged for the Empire. Under the Empire she has taken breath once more, and if now she is beginning to find, as all signs would seem to show she is, that the Empire has done its work, and is turning altogether to wrong and tyranny, we may be very sure that she will find the means and the time for asserting her rights afresh, and for taking another and an onward step in that path of revolution, in which she is fatally engaged, but in which no nation, worthy of the name, will ever advance, save by slow, and grave and painful degrees.

France and her Emperor.

Certain of our City cotemporaries have improved the occasion of the "Orsini demonstration" to read a lesson of stern rebuke to the people of France for their dastardly imbecility in succumbing to the despotic rule of the Third NAPOLEON. The illustrious editor of the Courier and Enquirer himself, who is well known to be the bosom friend and cish-window associate of the actual Emperor of the French, cannot resist the temptation of an irrepressible conviction, and balances his commendation of the tact, energy and skill of His Imperial Perfidious by a gravely sarcastic denunciation of the people of France who have bowed their necks to the yoke of the usurper. It would seem to be rather hard, certainly, that a whole nation of men should be branded as idiots, cowards and knaves, for yielding to the fascinations against which the Republican virtue of the distinguished journalist himself was not wholly proof. Yet we cannot but respect the Spartan honesty which holds its conceptions of truth, however bald and inchoate, to be more sacred than the spell of friendship; and we ought to overlook the cruelty in admiration of the justice which dictates the stern sentence passed by the Courier and Enquirer upon the ruler of France. And we can do this the more easily, perhaps, that there is really nothing in the present relations of the French Emperor with his people to demand a ferocious verdict upon either party to the tacit contract which underlies his government.

We give place to none, be it premised, in our detestation of the Napoleonic theory of authority; and we were certainly not among the last to express our belief that the administrative tactics which have been recently adopted by the French Government are equally impolitic and unjust—intolerable for the rigor with which they bring the weight of power to bear upon the private life and the private enterprises of Frenchmen, and unwise for the violence which they offer to the dominant convictions of all the most enlightened men of Europe and the world. But we are ourselves unable to see by what processes of logic the conclusions are reached from these premises, that in accepting the government of NAPOLEON III. the French people proved themselves incapable of freedom—and that in forbearing to dash his throne presently in pieces, they declare themselves insensible to wrong, and tamely patient of tyranny. Indeed, those who most loudly insist upon these vituperative conclusions, by their very vehemence stultify their own assertions. If there was no power in France behind the throne, the throne would be as little assailed as is the throne of Turkey to-day, or as was the throne of LOUIS XIV. a century and a half ago. The true secret of the fury with which the French people are assailed for enduring the second empire, is the sense which all men have, and none more keenly than the advocates of European Democracy, that France is full of independent and vigorous life. France has always given, and, for years to come, must give, the signal for any grave changes in the constitution of Continental Europe, and multitudes now beyond the borders of France really seem to regard revolution-making as the only legitimate business of the French people. Perhaps it is not the worst feature in the present condition of France, that she does not take precisely this view of her mission. There are some thirty millions of human beings within the limits of the French Empire, who have a great many serious interests in life to look after. Some of them are fathers, some of them are mothers, and a few of them discharge the ordinary natural relations of human beings with no inconsiderable fidelity and success. They have their work to do as the rest of us have—and they have peculiar difficulties of their own in politics and Government to deal with. When the Revolution of 1848, which took the country at large utterly by surprise, had failed, as it did most ignobly fail, to organize itself from a chaos into a constitution; when the centralized power of the administration had become the shuttle-cock of a dozen battledores in the hands of as many frantic players; the people of France accepted the decisive grasp of NAPOLEON, simply as the guarantee of repose, and in so doing did what any other people similarly situated would have been morally certain to do. It is very easy for us whose influence over the central authority of the nation is confined to us by a complete machinery of local and independent organizations, to rail upon the French for this acquiescence of theirs in the reestablishment of the Bonaparte dynasty, and to say that [illegible] Government should not withhold its aid and sanction.

We regard the establishment of a line of steamers between New-York and Para as eminently a national undertaking—almost a national obligation. It involves both commercial and political considerations. Such a line, as we now advocate, would redeem the ground we have lost. An American line would, in reality, be the highway of travel to Brazil, and all others would merely be its tributaries. The three thousand six hundred miles of sea-coast from the mouth of the Mississippi to the mouth of the Amazon would be under its control, and on the route there would be many important connections to make, as at Porto Rico, St. Thomas, Bermuda, Pernambuco, Demerara, Cayenne, &c. The American line, terminating at Para, would there connect with the Brazilian steamers, which run semi-monthly to Rio, and thence to the La Plata—and thus the chain of steam communication, connecting all the principal cities of the great Atlantic seaboard, would be complete. There is now but one link wanting. Upon that link all others will, more or less, depend, and we trust that, for the honor of American commerce, if not for its material interests, it will soon be wrought out. From its very position, the United States must and ought to, control the political as well as the commercial destinies of the New World. To acquire and maintain that control and ascendency by legitimate means is one of our highest duties; and the policy, inaugurated by MONROE, should not be allowed to die out, but should be carried on to a practical consummation by the peaceful extension of American commerce and civilization to the remotest parts of our own Continent.

Constitution-Making.

We are a progressive people. Our national boundaries require continued extension, and our fundamental laws frequent revision. The Anglo-Saxon plow runs to land, and the Anglo-Saxon mind to change. Nothing in the way of novelty comes amiss to us. A new province and a new constitution are alike to our taste.

Yet, with all our proclivity in this direction, it must be admitted the law passed by the Legislature, submitting the question of a Constitutional Convention, was a surprise upon the people. They had not asked for, or expected, it. But we are not at all certain that it will not be received with welcome, and carried out with alacrity. Should the people fail in November next to order a Convention, the fact will constitute an anomaly in the history of the State, for we believe that no instance can be found in which an opportunity to make a new Constitution, or amend an old one, has been suffered to go unimproved.

It may accordingly be assumed that the bill which the Legislature has passed will receive the popular sanction, and that in May or June of next year a Convention will assemble at the State Capital to frame a Constitution. This being taken for granted, it is not too early, even now, for thoughtful men to turn their attention, in some degree, to the changes which ought to be effected. There is, as yet, no distinct apprehension in the public mind of the specific objects to be accomplished. But evidently the consideration of these should not be postponed till after the vote in November; for that vote should be given in view of them.

It is quite safe to predict that the Canal or Financial Article and the article relating to the Judiciary, will chiefly occupy the Convention, and very probably the back track may be taken in regard to certain offices made elective in 1846. There are many who deem the elective judiciary little better than a failure, and the choice of so many minor officers by ballot a puzzling and useless tax upon the people. An effort will doubtless be made materially to increase the number of Judges, in order, if possible, to remedy the vexatious delays which have not at all abated since the Constitution of 1846. Under no conceivable organization of Courts can the trial of causes cease to consume labor and time; but we are bound to believe that, as the matter cannot be worse than it is, it may possibly be improved. Among the objects likely to be compassed, the restoration of authority to the Executive may be reckoned. The Convention of 1846 stripped the Governor somewhat too bare of power, thus reducing the respectability of the office without conferring any corresponding benefit upon the people. Other topics will suggest themselves the more the people reflect, and reflection is certainly needed, for we doubt whether any man in the whole State, Senator Srow, the author of the measure, excepted, has bestowed half an hour's thought upon a new Constitution since the Convention of 1846 adjourned.

THE ETERNAL NAVY RETIRING BOARD.—We had flattered ourselves that we had got rid of that Congressional incubus of the past two years, the action of the Navy Retiring Board, but, as the flunkey in the play says, we were premature. It is announced that the subject is to come before the public again in the shape of a joint resolution in Congress "shortly to be introduced" extending the time for examining into the cases of the officers who have not been restored, &c. It would have been the cheapest and best way to have reinstated all the officers in the beginning, and then tried each of them in detail by a separate Court-Martial. It would have saved the country some hundreds of thousands of dollars, and been much better for the Navy.

ASSASSINATION BY CONTRACT.—A rabid Red Republican, who has long disgusted the sensible portion of the German population by his fierce tirades in the Pioneer, of which paper the person in question is editor, has undertaken to assassinate LOUIS NAPOLEON, provided "his expenses are paid," and to do the deed within two months of his arrival in Paris. A thirst for ambition appears in this case to have supplanted a more harmless and Teutonic one for lager-bier. The subject would be ridiculous, but for the importance given to it by some of the German papers, and especially by the Criminal Zeitung, which, in its last issue, openly advocates the scheme; puffs the assassin as a man that may be relied on; mentions that three hundred dollars have already been contributed to the funds of the foul project, and urges fresh contributions. When a sheet calling itself a family and literary journal outrages common humanity by publishing a scheme of this villainous conspiracy, and when it feels that it may do so without sacrificing its character as popularly Steam Communication with Brazil.

The project—often started but never carried out—of running steamers between the United States and Brazil, is of more immediate importance to this country than any of the European mail-routes which Mr. FLORENCE proposes to establish. If our merchants had shown the slightest energy in the matter, we should, by this time, have monopolized the trade of the Brazils and the La Plata States. Our geographical position is such that the Brazilian trade, if not forced in another direction, would naturally find its way to our doors, and very little effort would be required, on our part, to retain it; but through indifference and neglect of our own most patent interests, we have quietly watched the current of South Atlantic commerce turned from its legitimate channel into the lap of Europe. France and England have each two lines of Brazilian steamers; Belgium has one; Hamburg has one; Portugal has one, even Sardinia has one. They all terminate at Rio, but they there connect with others running to Pernambuco and the Amazon on the North, and the La Plata on the South. The United States, however, has not a single steamship running to any port between the Orinoco and Cape Horn, and an American to-day, who wishes to visit Rio Janeiro, is compelled to travel thither by way of England, or submit to a long, uncertain voyage in a sailing vessel.

A line of semi-monthly steamers between some port in the Union and Para, at the mouth of the Amazon, is the one at present most urgently needed. If this alone can be accomplished, the chain of communication between all the principal Atlantic ports of North and South America will then be complete. The advantages which Para offers as a terminus for our steamship line are an important consideration. It is, in the first place, the most northern Brazilian seaport, and, consequently, the nearest to the United States. It is a city of about twelve thousand inhabitants, of which a large number are foreign merchants; and its commerce has greatly multiplied within the last few years. Steamers now ascend the Amazon River to a distance of nearly three thousand miles. They bring down to Para the produce of the most fertile valley in the world—a valley which contains more square miles than all Europe, and which, if properly cultivated, is capable of sustaining twice its population. The Amazon River and its tributaries furnish more miles of inland steamboat navigation than all the rivers in the United States combined, and the advantages of soil and climate are now attracting to its banks immigration both from Europe and Northern America. The result of the first attempt—faint though it be—to people and cultivate the Amazon Valley, is to be found in the steadily increasing trade of Para. This city is, of necessity, the emporium of all the produce of that Amazon country which extends from the mouth of the river to the Cordilleras of Peru. The natural produce alone of this vast region includes India-rubber, sarsaparilla, the chocolate bean, balsams and gums of every description, dyes of all colors, ornamental woods, Peruvian and other barks, besides cotton, rice, tobacco, coffee and sugar. But all uncultivated as the Amazon valley yet is, it has raised Para to a high position among the commercial cities of the South American Continent, and it will undoubtedly make her, at some future day, the commercial capital of the Brazilian Empire. The exports of Para amount now to several millions; its imports are nearly as large; and this trade, which must hereafter swell to enormous proportions, it is in the power of the United States to secure and control. Surely the matter is of sufficient importance to receive a passing consideration from Congress. We have already permitted a large portion of the South American trade to be turned from its legitimate source by the superior enterprise of Great Britain. Let us hasten then to remedy our mistake before it is too late. It is notorious that an American merchant in Para (only ten days' steaming from New-York) is obliged to send his letters to this City by way of Rio Janeiro and Southampton. This fact, of itself, should stimulate our enterprise. In a pecuniary point of view a line of steamers between this City and Para would amply repay its projectors. Besides the remuneration to be derived from a large and constantly increasing amount of freight, there would be a very considerable passenger traffic. But the enterprise is one so important to the commercial interests of the whole nation, that,

[illegible] Theatre, Mr. Burton's Company continues to crowd the house every night. The bill for this week is very strong, and includes the popular comedy of "Ireland as it Was," in which Mr. Burton will appear in his celebrated character of Paddy Rafferty. The Bowery Theatre, Mr. Wallack's Theatre, and Niblo's Garden have all been well filled during the past week, and will be so, we trust, during the remainder of the season. Mr. Forrest is still at the Broadway, playing to good houses. Mr. Lola Montez is still at Wallack's, and will be there for a few nights longer. Mr. Burton's Company will open the Bowery Theatre for a week, and appears every evening in a condensed version of Mr. Watkins' adaptation, called "The Bride at an Evening." In the afternoon there is a variety of pieces. The indefatigable and inexhaustible Manager Pyne comes last in the list of liberal providers for the public, but the bill he offers is by no means the least attractive. A most excellent company has Manager Pyne, and of singular flexibility of talent. To-night Shakspeare's "Hamlet," followed by "The Slave" and "Out for Partners."

Christy's Minstrelsy will be found "at home" at Wood's Concerts, and at Pete's Campbell Minstrels, No. 444 Broadway. The programmes offered by these companies are of the very best kind.

Concerts.—Miss Maria S. Brainard, a very young and accomplished vocalist, announces a Concert for to-morrow evening at Dodworth's Saloon. Mr. Rosen (piano), Mr. de Tomas (harp), and Mr. W. Coote (tenor vocalist), will assist, and Mr. C. W. Martin will preside. The programme contains excellent pieces.

Lecture.—Miss Theresa Emmons will deliver one of her agreeable lectures on the Poets and Poetry of Ireland, at Mozart Hall, on Wednesday, assisted by Miss Lozier, who will sing eight of Moore's Melodies.

Church Music.—Mr. Willig, the able editor of the Musical World, is doing a good service to the Episcopal Church by publishing in his interesting and valuable (because reliable and unprejudiced) weekly a complete musical service, consisting of the Canticles and Musical Psalms and Hymns of the Book of Common Prayer. The first portion appears in this number for the present week, printed in a convenient shape for binding; the music on one side, the words on the other. The best Church melodies will be added for this collection, and reharmonized in accordance with the progressive taste and musical culture of the day.

City Items.

City Taxes.—The amount of the City Tax Levy authorized by the Legislature is $2,441,098. This includes $100,000 for building a hospital on Blackwell's Island, $10,000 for the Police Commissioners' expenses, in respectfully litigating the new Police Bill against Mayor Wood, $30,000 for payment of salaries to Common and his men, and $12,800 for Governor's Island expenses. These last items are in opposition to those permitted by the Common Council.

This year the Legislature gives but $1,000 to the New-York Dispensary, and but $750 to each of the other City Dispensaries—less by about 20 per cent than usual.

New-York Volunteer Revolver Association.—The association held its annual meeting at the Mercer House, a few evenings since, and elected the following officers:

President—Jarvis Dunham.
Vice-President—Morton Fairchild, George B. Hall, Thomas Carroll.
Secretary—William H. Bowen.

Since June 2, over three hundred dollars have been distributed among the sick and destitute of the First Regiment of New-York Volunteers.

Death of Rev. Dudley A. Tyng.—Last evening the church of Rev. Dr. Cutler, in this City, was filled to overflowing, on the occasion of a funeral discourse from the incumbent, on the late death of the Rev Dudley A. Tyng. As the discourse will, in all probability, be demanded for publication, it is unnecessary to say more than that it was worthy of the theme, and of Dr. Cutler. It was heard with profound attention.

Our City Authorities and the Supervisors of Westchester County are directed, by a late act of the Legislature, to build a free bridge across the Harlem River, from between the termination of Seventh and Eighth avenues to the road leading to Macombs Dam. Macombs Dam is to be removed and the river made navigable at all times of the tide. The two counties are to pay in equal parts the sum of $15,000 to defray the expenses. The bridge is to have a turn draw opening, and the Commissioners are to serve without pay, except traveling expenses, and give bonds for the faithful discharge of their duties.

The Legislature has incorporated the following institution as a New-York Law College: Charles Kirk, Chancellor Furth, Horace Webster, T. D. Anburn, George Wood, L. H. Sandford, Amasa J. Parker, Valentine Mott, W. C. Noyes and Daniel P. Tiemann. They are empowered to confer the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and to teach legal sciences. They are to admit five free students every year from the Free Academy to their lectures.

When Coroner Connery held an inquest, on Saturday, on the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Pocros, an elderly lady, 50 years old, who was found dead in a chair in the rear of No. 48 West Twenty-eighth-street, it was found that she had strangled herself while in a state of temporary mental aberration, expected by religious excitement.

On Saturday Governor King visited Simpson's gallery of "The Presentation of the Resolute to Queen Victoria," on exhibition at Schaus' picture gallery, 772 Broadway. He expressed himself highly pleased with the accuracy of the likenesses. The exhibition closes on May 1.

Notaries Public, by a late act of the Legislature, are empowered to take proof of conveyances of real estate and the execution of mortgages, and take affidavits and administer oaths, but not Commissioners of Deeds may.

The steamer Thomas Powell, Capt. A. Anderson, on Saturday last commenced her daily trips to Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Rondout and Kingston. She is to leave this City, foot of Chambers-street, every week day afternoon, (3½ P. M.,) and return every morning.

☞ The Way of Life is a new religious weekly just certain to this City by Hogan & Thomas. It proposes to be the special organ of the Young Men's Christian Association, and is issued in very handsome style.

Fire and Ship News.

An Emigrant ship, Captain Gade, of the ship Europe, from New-Orleans, reports: April 18, at 5 P. M., lat. 32° 40', lon. 69° 20', with sea perfectly smooth, felt a severe shock of an earthquake. It commenced with a noise like a distant thunder, and kept increasing until it shaked like a heavy carriage passing within miles away. About the fourth or fifth shock it was so near that it shook the ship, and some of the lead struck the bottom, causing the ship to jump, frame and glasses to rattle and shake so that at first some one was running up the main rigging, and the shocks lasted about a minute. The sky was very sultry and the sky was a dark yellow resembling a mist. The earthquake was felt on the ship. There was no swell after the shock, on the contrary the sea remained perfectly smooth.

Trial of Peter Fagan.—[illegible]

[illegible] Ship Charles Ill, Schoppell, 400 tobacco; John Bacon, Jones, 400 tobacco, hardwood, &c. Up for foreign ports, 113 vessels for distant ports in the United States, 21. Cleared Friday and Saturday, 1 ship, 1 bark, 2 brigs, and 9 schooners.

The steamer Canada, at Halifax, brings intelligence of the total loss of one Boston and one New-York ship, and also of an Eastern bark.

The ship Tiber, Sears, of Boston, which was from the Chinchas, bound to England, and abandoned at sea, was an A 1 ship of 1,057 tons register, built in this City in 1855, and was owned in Boston, by Sears. The crew were picked up and taken to Havre.

The ship Exchange, Capt. Perzas, of New-York, from Liverpool, bound to Newport, in ballast, ashore at Wicklow, was 800 tons register, built in Bath, Me., in 1855, rated A 1½, and belongs to her builder, J. Hitchcock.

The bark Victor, Holbrook, from Callao, to Dunkirk, which was abandoned at sea in a sinking condition, was 292 tons register, built in Westbrook in 1849, and was owned in Plymouth. The crew were saved.

The American bark Petrea, whose loss was previously reported, is a total wreck, all efforts to get her off having failed. The passengers, 200 in number, and the crew, were landed in safety.

The schooner A. B. Borden, Capt. Wightman which was overhauled and examined by the British steam sloop-of-war Styx, about a month ago, when off Mantanzas, on the supposition that she was a slaver, has lately arrived at Savannah, and the Collector of that port has made inquiry into the facts, as it is supposed, under the instructions of the Government, with the view to having the affair brought to the attention of the British Minister.

John O. Little, a lad of only 17 years of age, who was one of the crew of the brig Acme, bound from Philadelphia to Sicily, and who fatally stabbed the mate (Mr. A. D. Pierson) on the 4th of last January with a sheath-knife, was brought home in irons, and arrived at Baltimore on Friday, on board the bark Osmanli. The prisoner and two witnesses were committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

A serious revolt occurred at sea on board th ship Black Prince, of Boston, when only thirteen days out, bound to San Francisco, Capt. Brown, having put into Rio Janeiro on the 27th of February, writes to his owners that, in consequence of some difficulty, he ordered a man in irons. The man drew his knife, and swore he would be the death of any one who touched him. As Capt. Brown approached him, with a cutlass, he was attacked by the man, who stabbed Brown in two places, and cut his clothes. The man was eventually put in irons. Shortly after it was discovered that there was a concerted plan to mate difficulty when the ship was off Valparaiso and Callao, and oblige Capt. B. to put in. Capt. Brown then deemed it best to put into Rio and get rid of the mutineers. Seven were landed, and their places supplied by other men. The ship sailed on the 24 of March. Capt. B.'s wounds were not serious.

A letter from Mr. Provost, mate of ship Junior, N. B., dated Sydney, Feb. 11, states that he had partially recovered from the injuries he received in the late mutiny on board that ship; that on account of the heavy expenses he would incur in putting the ship in order, he has abandoned the idea of continuing the voyage, and will bring the ship home; consequently he has advertised for freight and passengers, to sail March 1 for New-Bedford. The Consul will send four of the murderers home in the ship.

The death of Mr. John O'Keeffe, who was lost from on board the pilot boat Jacob A. Westervelt, was appropriately noticed by a meeting of the pilots on Friday last. The following among other resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That cherishing the recollections of his kindly and manly bearing as a private citizen, and his intelligence and energy as a pilot, we deeply lament this sudden bereavement.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with his widow and helpless children in this hour of their bitter affliction, and trust that a beneficent Providence will watch over and protect them in the storms of life.

A copy of the resolutions were transmitted to the family of deceased.

Political.

The official vote of Connecticut at the April election has been declared. Buckingham, Republican candidate for Governor, is elected by a plurality of 2,754 over Pelletr. The full vote was as follows: Buckingham, 36,236; Pelletr, 33,544; Scattering, 285.

The double-headed Democratic Convention (Douglas and Buchanan) of Illinois, met at Springfield on the 21st instant. The Hon. Jesse Moore presided in the Douglas Convention, and the Hon. John Dougherty in the Buchanan wing. The Douglas Party passed resolutions, indorsed Douglas and the Cincinnati Platform, and nominated Wm. B. Fondey for State Treasurer, and Ex-Governor Ferwon for Superintendent of Public Instruction. The Buchanan faction made no nominations, leaving the task to a State Committee, which is called at Springfield for the 9th of June. The people are to be addressed by a Special Committee, which is charged with the duty of setting forth the policy of the Administration Party in Illinois.

The Opposition members of the last Legislature of New-Jersey, have put forth an Address to the People, in which they say:

"Those voters who compose the opposition to the late and present national administrations have been divided, and consequently defeated, although comprising a majority in the State, as evinced by the elections of 1856 and 1857. The question then presses upon us, as well as upon those whom we represent, whether we shall continue divided, and thus aid our opponents, or unite and overcome them? The inconsistent and wrongful proceedings of the Administration in exerting the Executive power to force the Lecompton Constitution upon the people of Kansas, against their known wishes—in despite of assurances and pledges, and of admitted frauds and violence, demand a popular rebuke. These things indicate the necessity of a union of all right thinking men, without regard to past differences or affinities, though without sacrificing political principles heretofore maintained.

"If all such will make a common effort, as a united opposition party, in favor of conservative men and measures, fair protection to home industry, the purity of the elective franchise and the ballot-box, free Kansas, and the sovereignty of the people, native or naturalized, in forming their State Constitutions, success will be inevitable.

"Let every matter of discord be forgotten, and a perfect organization prevail of all opposed to the principal measures of the present Administration, and when the time for action shall arrive, let every county, and every Congressional and Legislative District, present a united front, and New-Jersey will cease to be misrepresented either in the National or State Councils.

The last report of the Kentucky Deaf and Dumb Institution says of the effects of inter-marriages: From ten to twenty per cent. of deaf mutes are the children of cousins. It is greatly to be regretted that the law forbidding the marriage of first cousins did not pass the recent Legislature. These marriages is a violation of a law of nature, as is evidenced by the afflictions visited in almost every case upon their offspring in deafness, blindness and idiocy—and ought to be a violation of human laws also.

Close of the Trial of Ira Stout for the Murder of Charles Little—The Prisoner Boasted to be Hung.

From the Rochester Democrat of Saturday.

The protracted trial of Ira Stout, for the murder of Charles W. Little, was brought to a close yesterday afternoon, and the Jury brought in a verdict of Guilty. This decision was reached after very brief consultation, we understand, and was unanimous upon the first formal expression. During the course of the trial, the Jurors had refrained from canvassing the question, or expressing to each other their opinions on the case. And when they retired to their room, after the case was submitted to them, they received first to ballot, without discussing the question. Upon the very first ballot, they were unanimous for a verdict of guilty. Finding that they were all of the same mind, it was proposed then to weigh their opinions, in order to see if they could not reduce the character of the crime to manslaughter. But neither original conclusions remained unmoved, and it was announced to the Court that they were prepared to deliver their verdict.

The verdic is in accordance with the prevailing public sentiment. Very few have any doubt as to the character of the crime committed by the convicted prisoner. We think the justness of the verdict will be almost unanimously conceded.

The prisoner's bold and almost defiant appearance was not changed by this terrible announcement, which moved many strong men to tears. That he suffered a hidden anguish, the external indications of which were suppressed, there can be no doubt. And one of the saddest of the spectacles afforded by this trial, has been the unmoved and almost unconcerned bearing of the young prisoner. He resolved to pass the ordeal without evincing any revulsion of feeling, and has carried out that resolution. But we cannot regard it otherwise than as a melancholy exhibition of cool hardihood.

It is likely, we think, that the Prosecuting Attorney will decide to accept a plea of guilty of manslaughter from Mrs. Little, to-day. Justice will not demand the sacrifice of two victims, and there are other considerations which are likely to conduce to this decision.

The following proceedings occurred on the occasion of the delivery of the verdict of the Jury:

At 6¼ o'clock, the signal was given, and the citizens rushed in hundreds to the Court room.

The Court had resumed its seat on the bench, and the Jury had returned to their seats. The prisoner, who had been remanded, was brought from jail.

Col. Wm. Charles, the Clerk of the Court, called the names of the Jurors, and put the question, "Have you agreed upon your verdict?"

The Foreman rose and answered, "We have."

Clerk—"Do you find the prisoner guilty, as charged in the indictment, or not guilty?"

Foreman—"Guilty!"

Clerk—Gentlemen of the Jury, you say you find the prisoner guilty of Murder! So say you all?

The Jury assented.

The defendant's counsel demanded that the Jury be polled.

The prisoner was required to stand up, and he immediately sprang from his seat, with the same strange self-possession which he had manifested throughout.

Each juror answered to the question "is this your verdict?" in a firm voice, "It is."

The prisoner then turned toward the audience, with what appeared to be an almost sardonic smile upon his face, and sat down.

When ordered to be remanded, he promptly rose, extended and bared his wrists for the shackles, and was taken from the Court Room to the jail, whence he will be brought to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, when the sentence of the law be passed upon him.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

Rochester, Saturday, April 24.

The Court opened at 10 o'clock, this morning, to sentence Ira Stout for the murder of Charles M. Little. The prisoner was asked if he had any thing to say. He replied: "Nothing—too much has been said already." Judge Wells then sentenced him to be hung on the 18th of June, between the hours of 12 and 4 P. M. The prisoner evinced no emotion at the verdict or the sentence.

A Villainous Gang Caught.

From the Chicago Times.

Mr. J. R. Coudry, Deputy United States Marshal, of Wisconsin, arrived in this city yesterday, having in custody a German named Charles Reisner, alias Charles Reser, who is charged with the crimes of burglary, robbery, arson, and murder, in La Crosse, Wisconsin. Reisner was arrested at Peoria, where, under the name of Hess, he has been carrying on the business of a butcher. In the Summer of 1855, he was arrested in this city by officers Rand and Sauer, for larceny, for which he was convicted and sentenced for the term of two years to the State Prison at Alton. After serving out his time, he went to La Crosse, where in less than six weeks after his arrival, the murder was committed for which he is now arrested.

The circumstances of the murder were as follows: In July, 1857, a young man landed at La Crosse from one of the Prairie du Chien and St. Paul packets. He proceeded directly to a livery stable and hired a horse and buggy for the purpose, as he stated, of going some distance back into the country. From this trip he returned just at dusk, and, in paying the stable-keeper, displayed some $500 in money, all in bills of $50 and $100. One of the fifties was given to the stable-keeper, who returned the requisite change. The man named William John was standing in the stable at the time and witnessed the transaction. He followed the boy, on his leaving the stable, and this was the last time the latter was seen alive. About two weeks afterwards, his body was fished out of the river by some men drawing a seine. It had been stabbed four times in the region of the heart, and there was also a wound on the face, the effect of a blow with some heavy weapon. The body was quite naked. Not far from the same time a jewelry store in La Crosse was robbed of some $8,000 worth of goods. No clue was obtained to the perpetrator of either of these crimes until some months afterward.

There were living in La Crosse at that time four Germans, named L. Reisner, Albert Mallow, William John and Charles Ruhner. They were engaged in the butchering business, and it was pretty generally suspected that the great portion of their stock was stolen from farmers and others in the neighborhood. They at length got into difficulty in regard to burning another butcher's barn, and fled the country. Mallow left his wife and child in La Crosse. They had been gone about three months, when Mallow's wife, becoming reduced to absolute want, sold some jewelry in liquidation of her board. This jewelry was found to be a portion of the goods stolen from the store of Pazzs. A search warrant was immediately taken out, and in the house in which this woman had been living unlawfully with L. Kesner, about $1,000 worth of jewelry was found in a trunk under the bed, together with the identical clothes of the murdered boy, identified by the stabs through them corresponding with the wounds upon his body. Mrs. Mallow and Kesner were arrested and confined in jail.

The clue thus afforded to the perpetrators of both the crimes was then taken up by Mr. Coudry, who followed their trail until all the implicated parties were arrested. Mallow was found at Council Bluffs, Iowa, in the butchering business, under the name of William Teale. John was found in Missouri, near Leavenworth City, at work in a saw mill. He had a shanty in the woods, where about $4,000 worth of the stolen jewelry was also found. On the way down the Missouri River the prisoner, heavily ironed, jumped overboard and was drowned. Charles Reisner, the last of the gang, was arrested, as we have already stated, at Peoria, day before yesterday. About $2,000 worth of the stolen jewelry was found in his possession, yet he persistently denies all knowledge of the crimes which the gang have committed. He was detained in the jail of this city yesterday, and will be taken hence to La Crosse to-day.

Mount Vernon the Property of the Nation.

It is with feelings of the highest gratification we announce to the public that the persevering efforts of the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association of the Union have been crowned with success commensurate with their sacred views and lofty patriotism, and that they have at last secured to the American people the privilege of making the home and grave of Washington the property of the Nation!

On the failure of the Mount Vernon bill, in the General Assembly of Virginia, we renewed our overtures to Mr. Washington to sell the property to the Association. These overtures met with a favorable response, and on the 8th of April a contract was signed by Mr. Washington, which obligated him to transfer Mount Vernon to the Association, on its compliance with the following terms, viz:

The payment of $200,000 for two hundred acres of land, including the mansion and landing-place, and, above all, the tomb.

Eighteen thousand dollars to be paid on closing of contract, and the remainder of the sum, in four bonds, payable in yearly instalments, with the permission, after payment of the first bond, to pay to Mr. Washington any amount of the balance due, in sums of not less than $5,000, which sums will be credited to the Association, in this manner lessening the interest.

The title to the estate, and possession to be given on payment of the principal and interest, and the privilege also granted of obtaining possession, on thirty days' notice, at any time the Association may be ready to furnish the entire purchase money.

Orators, statesmen, the noble brotherhood of Masons, Odd Fellows, &c., patriots, one and all, have come promptly to the aid of woman! And ye, women of the North and of the South, of the East and of the West—will ye not rally to the work? Will ye not vie, one with another, which will give most, and do most, that we may, on the 22d of February, 1859, claim and take possession of the home and grave of him who loved us all; and thus make his birth-day the birth-day also of republican gratitude, justice and fraternal love?

ANN PAMELA CUNNINGHAM,
Regent of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association.

Richmond, Friday, April 16, 1858.

Philadelphia, Saturday, Morning, [illegible]

While I [illegible] you and [illegible] with all my heart, for the kind hope you have expressed, that the recent rumor only regards my highest welfare may be true, I am constrained to say, that rumor is in this, as in most matters that pertain to religion, grievously in error—there is not one word of truth in it.

But in answer to your questions, my good friend, for I know you are animated only by a sincere regard for my spiritual as well as for my temporal welfare, I am happy to assure you that the paternal attack of inflammatory rheumatism, with which for the last three months I have contributed, is now quite overcome, and I think I may safely say, that with the return of more genial weather I shall be restored once more to a sound and pristine health.

Then, for the state of my mind. I do not know the time, since, when a boy, I blew sportive bladders in the beamy sun, that it ever was so tranquil and serene as in the present hour. Having profited by the leisure given me by my lengthened illness seriously to review the past and carefully consider the future, both for time and for eternity, I have, with a chastised spirit, beheld, with many regrets, that there was much in the past that might have been improved; more, perhaps, in the acts of omission than in acts of commission, for I feel sustained that my whole conduct has been actuated solely by an honest desire to adhere strictly to the rule of right; that the past has been characterized, as I trust the future will be; to love my friends; to hate my enemies—for I cannot be a hypocrite—and to live in accordance with the divine precept, as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

And now for that "higher welfare" of which you speak. I can only say, that believing, as I sincerely do, in the justice, the mercy, the wisdom, and the love of Him who knoweth the secrets of our hearts, I hope I may, with

"An unfaltering trust approach my grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Hoping you are still in the enjoyment of good health, and that you still prosper in the "good work," which to you I know is a labor of love, I am your friend, EDWIN FORREST.

A Chase after a Fugitive Slave.

Correspondence of the Albany Evening Journal.

Easton, Washington Co., Monday, April 19, 1858.

For some time past Charles Haviland, a farmer, residing in this town, has had in his employ a fugitive slave.

On the 9th inst. two strangers came into the town with the avowed purpose of finding a farm for sale. On the following Monday they returned with two others. The carriages stopped at the hotel, and one of the four repaired to Haviland's house and held a conversation with the negro respecting the farm. They paid their bill at the hotel and left, remarking to the landlord at the time, "you will hear from us again soon." By this time the suspicions of the people were excited, but nothing was done to secrete the negro. Matters remained quiet until last Saturday. At an early hour Saturday morning, two barouches drove up to Haviland's door, each containing four armed men besides the driver. They called Haviland out and inquired for the negro, but received no satisfaction. They then reached the out-buildings and demanded to search the house. Haviland told them that if they entered his house they did so at their peril. After making many threats, this party finally left, assuring their auditors in strong terms that they would take the man at all events.

Yesterday the citizens held an indignation meeting, and among other things resolved to keep the negro here, and fight for him if necessary. They also appointed a Vigilance Committee in each School District in the town, whose duty it is to act as sentinels.

The editors of Pennsylvania have organized an Editorial Association. A meeting, held in Philadelphia last week, wound up with a festival, at which speeches were made and the craft duly honored.

The Quarantine Convention.

The National Quarantine Convention meets in Baltimore next week. The Committee of the New-York City Board of Health, which attended the Convention at Philadelphia last year, has just rendered the following report:

To the Honor the Mayor and members of the Board of Health of the City and County of New-York:

The undersigned delegates, from this Board, to the National Quarantine Convention, held in the city of Philadelphia on May 12, beg leave to report:

That in accordance with the resolution of this Board they repaired to Philadelphia, and there met in Convention delegates from Boards of Health, Boards of Trade, and Medical Societies, from the various seaport cities of the Union.

That after the organization of the Convention was duly effected, various discussions arose, and an interchange of thought and experience took place, embracing the manifold subjects connected with quarantine regulations and restrictions, and the necessities which gave them rise. For greater particularity, as to the doings of the Convention, the undersigned beg leave to refer to the report of its proceedings which is in course of preparation.

It was to us a source of regret that, upon such an occasion, the combined wisdom of the country should have been brought to bear upon this important subject, the first Quarantine Convention ever held in America, and the second in the world—that New-York, the commercial metropolis of this Continent, that has more than any other city of money and life dependent upon the proper understanding of Quarantine requirements and restrictions, the necessities which call for them, and the intelligent discharge of Quarantine laws, should have been represented simply by the undersigned, without the presence from our City of a single physician. Aside from the valuable information upon this important subject to be gathered from the experience and wisdom of others, New-York should never neglect an opportunity like this to draw closer the bonds of union, to increase the harmony and good feeling, and to promote the desire of concert and cooperation in the advancement of the general good between herself and her sister cities. We felt, however, to acknowledge the courtesy of several scientific gentlemen of our City, who, from a desire to promote the public good, made suggestions and imparted information to the undersigned which aided them much to intelligently discharge their duties. In conclusion, we would express our sincere thanks to our Philadelphia friends, who received us, the representatives of a rival city, with extended hands, and entertained us with hospitality; and we would suggest that this Board, by prompt action, evince their willingness and desire to contribute their full share towards the expenses of the Convention.

Coroners' Inquests.

THE RECENT FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The boy, three years of age, who was run over Thursday afternoon, at the corner of Eleventh-avenue and Forty-eighth-street, by a Hudson River Railroad train, proved to be JOHN WALTONS, the son of a butcher, residing on Eleventh-avenue. The Coroner held an inquest in the case on Friday, at the Twenty-second Ward Station-House. It was shown, in the evidence, that the cars were not running at an illegal rate of speed, but that neither the engineer nor fireman knew anything of the accident until the entire train had passed over the body of the deceased. The Jury rendered the following verdict: "That the deceased came to his death from injuries received by being run over by a train on the Hudson River Railroad, in Eleventh-avenue, near Forty-eighth-street; and further, that there was culpable neglect on the part of the engineer and fireman, in not keeping a proper look-out to avoid such accidents."

THREE MEN FOUND DROWNED.—The bodies of three unknown men were found drowned yesterday in the East and North Rivers; one at the foot of Forty-ninth-street, East River; another at the foot of Pier No. 1, East River; and a third at the foot of Barrow-street, North River. The first body was that of a man about 35 years of age, and dressed as a longshoreman; it had evidently been in the water several weeks. The second was that of a laboring man, and appeared to have been in the water about three months; he was dressed in dark woolen pants, striped cotton shirt and thick boots. The third body is supposed, from papers found upon his person, to have been GERMAN MALLOY, Contractor, of No. 174 East Twenty-fourth-street. The deceased was about 24 years of age, and was dressed in a black overcoat, dark frock coat, black pants and cotton shirt. No marks of violence being found on either body, a verdict was rendered in each case of "supposed drowning."

DEATH FROM DELIRIUM TREMENS.—Coroner SMITH held an inquest, yesterday, at the City Hospital, upon the body of ALEXANDER SMITH, who died on Saturday of delirium tremens and erysipelas. The deceased had been employed as a night-watchman by Mr. WILLIAM POWER, tailor, at No. 208 Broadway. The Jury rendered a verdict of "Death by delirium tremens and erysipelas." A statement, made by the deceased while delirious, that burglars had broken into Mr. Power's store and beaten him, led to the supposition that his death had been caused by violence, but such proved not to be the case. The deceased was 47 years of age, and a native of Scotland.

DROWNED MAN RECOGNIZED.—The body found on Tuesday morning, in the East River, at the foot of Grand-street, was recognized on Friday as that of THOMAS KENNEY, a seaman, who boarded at No. 153 Monroe-street, and who had been missing five weeks. An inquest was held upon the body, and no marks of violence being found, a verdict of "Supposed drowning" was rendered.

BOY RUN OVER AND KILLED.—Coroner CONNERY held an inquest, on Friday, at No. 370 Third-avenue, upon the body of EDWARD HARTNEGAN, a boy six years of age, who was run over on Thursday evening, by a car, in Twenty-third-street, and instantly killed. The Jury, in their verdict, censured JOHN BLAKE, the owner of the car, for not having a sufficient guard.

UNKNOWN PERSON FOUND DROWNED.—The body of PETER GAHIN, who resided at No. 144 Ferry-street, and who disappeared on March 8, and was supposed to have been murdered, was found yesterday, at the dock foot of Hammond-street. An inquest will be held to-day at the residence of the deceased. No marks of violence were found on his body.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—An inquest was held yesterday at the City Hospital, on the body of JOHN PURDY, who died from injuries received on the 11th inst., by being run over by a train of cars on the Erie Railroad. The evidence showed that no blame could be attributed to the employees on the road, and a verdict was rendered of "Accidental Death."

Fires.

IN PEARL-STREET.—At a few minutes to 2 o'clock on Saturday morning a fire was discovered in the apothecatory front room of the dwelling-house No. 51 Pearl-street, occupied by THOMAS O'CONNOR. It was soon extinguished—the damage not exceeding $50. No insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

IN THIRTY-FIRST-STREET.—At 10½ A. M., a slight fire occurred in the varnish factory of WM. VANDERVOORT, in Thirty-first-street, near First-avenue. It was put out with a few pails of water.

At 3.45 P. M. a fire broke out in the second story of the dwelling-house, No. 42 Scammel-street, occupied by Widow BUTLER. The damage was about $25, insured.

LOTTERY CAUTION.—We would respectfully caution the public against the many frauds practised upon the community under the guise of Lotteries. There are but four States in which lotteries are legalized, viz.: Kentucky, Delaware, Maryland and Georgia, therefore, all circulars or advertisements directing parties to send to New-York or to any place in which lotteries are unlawful, can be safely set down as bogus or swindling concerns; and too much praise cannot be awarded to his Honor, Mayor TIEMANN, for the strong and successful efforts he is making towards breaking them up. ANOTHER SEVERELY BEATEN BY ROWDIES.—Mr. THOMAS THOMAS, of Eleventh-street, near Fifth-avenue, Gowanus, while going home between 11 and 12 o'clock Saturday night last, was attacked on Fifth-avenue near Sixteenth-street, by three men, who beat him so severely that he is considered dangerously injured. Mr. THOMAS says that he left the store of Mr. DUFFY, corner of Third-avenue and Eighteenth-street for home a little after 11 o'clock, that on Fifth-avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, he met three men rolling a barrel of flour. The circumstance excited a suspicion that the flour had been stolen, and he stopped to take a good look at the men. While standing still one of the three men came up to him in a menacing manner and asked "what right he had to look at them." To this he replied "that they had no right to question his right to look at them." He was then knocked down and beaten until insensible. He resisted as long as it was possible for him to do so, yelling lustily meanwhile for assistance. His cries were heard and several men went to his assistance. They found him insensible in the street. By this time his assailants had fled, but they left the flour behind, and the Police of that District feel confident of securing the guilty parties. Assistant-Surgeon BALL, of the Police Department, yesterday examined THOMAS, and found the following injuries: A cut under the left eye, a severe contusion over the left temple, large triangular wound of the scalp on the crown of the head, extending to the bone; a severe contusion behind the right ear, a cut on the right side of the nose, a severe bruise on the back of the left hand, and great soreness of the whole right side The street where THOMAS was found bears evidences of a severe struggle; his blood is scattered along for near half a block, and where his head lay there was a pool of blood.

INTERESTING TO MAGISTRATES, PARTICULARLY ALDERMEN.—The police of the Third Precinct, on Saturday night, filled their Station-house with prisoners. The offences were for gambling, fighting and intoxication. Yesterday an Alderman of the Sixth Ward called at the Station, and demanded that the prisoners be brought before him for bail. Captain SHAUMAN very politely informed the official that he could not be gratified. "What," says the Alderman, "do you refuse to obey a magistrate?" "Certainly," says Capt. SHAUMAN, "no magistrate can exercise any authority here on Sunday." At another time during the day an Alderman of the Tenth Ward called for a similar purpose, and received a similar reply. He, too, left indignant, and called upon Commissioner STRANAHAN, to complain of the official in charge of the Station. It is hardly necessary to say that he got no satisfaction. The Commissioner referred the complainant to the Captain of the Precinct, who doubtless understood his duty. Some of the Aldermen find it very difficult to understand that the Metropolitan Police law is in force.

REORGANIZATION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.—The report of the Special Committee in favor of reorganizing the Fire Department and establishing it upon a paid system, was discussed on Friday and Saturday last, by the Common Council in Committee of the Whole—meetings called especially to consider this report—but without any definite result. A remonstrance, said to be signed by 3,000 persons against the report, was sent in. A petition in favor, signed by half a dozen persons, said to pay more towards the support of the City Government than the 3,000 who remonstrate, was also presented. At both sessions the firemen filled the lobby, and notwithstanding the vigilance of the Chairman, could not at all times be restrained from manifesting their approval or disapproval of what was said by the disputants. The supporters of the report urge its adoption mainly upon moral grounds—believing the volunteer system to be the nursery of crime. The opponents nearly all admit the necessity of a change in the Department, but are opposed to the plan proposed by the Committee. They deem it impracticable and more expensive than the present system. Some affect to believe that the Common Council have not the power to make the change.

FLATBUSH-AVENUE ASSESSMENT.—The order restraining the Collector from collecting any assessments comprised in the roll presented by the Commissioners in Flatbush-avenue, was, on Saturday last, before Judge BROWN, in the Supreme Court, amended so as to allow those who would voluntarily pay their assessment to do so, with liberty to apply for further relief to him, at Newburg, on the first Tuesday in May.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS.—On Friday night two women, named JOSEPHINE AVERY alias MARY ANDERSON and ELIZA LEWIS alias MARY SMITH, were arrested in the Eastern District, Friday night, while in the act of passing counterfeit $5s on the Bank of Princeton. They succeeded in destroying the counterfeit money on their persons, and thus removed all evidence of guilt. They were committed, however.

MORTALITY.—During the week ending Saturday last, there were only 63 deaths reported at the Health Office. Of these 45 were males and 18 females; 41 men, 14 women, 21 boys, and 27 girls. There were 6 deaths by consumption, 3 by scarlet fever and 4 by small-pox.

DISGRACEFUL.—The conductor of car No. 12 Fulton-avenue line, on Friday night last, threw a man named FREE from the car upon the rail track, while intoxicated. He was fortunately discovered by a policeman of the Fourth Precinct in season to prevent any serious consequences.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.—A man named JAMES MCLAUGHLAIN, recently convicted of setting fire to a school-house in Middletown, Conn., and remanded for sentence, broke jail the night after, and was captured in this city Friday night last, and on Saturday was sent back for sentence.

FIRE.—Sunday night a fire broke out in the dry goods store of MR. DUKE & SON, No. 182 Fulton-avenue, by which the most of the stock, valued at $4,000, was either burnt or much damaged by water. Insured in the Lafayette, Fulton, Phœnix, and other offices. The damage to the building was small. There was some difficulty among the firemen when they first arrived at the fire, about which companies should take water and which should not. The difficulty was settled without a serious fight.

THE CANVASSING COMMITTEE.—The Canvassing Committee of the Board of Canvassers meet again at 10 o'clock this morning, and intend to be ready to report at the next meeting of the Board.

QUARANTINE.—The Common Council have appointed a Committee of Three to attend the national Quarantine Convention to be held in Baltimore on the 29th inst.

A motion was made in the Supreme Court before Judge BROWN, on Saturday, by the counsel of AMOS P. STANTON, indicted for committing an assault and battery upon the person of ISAAC VAN ANDEN, Proprietor of the Brooklyn Eagle, to have the indictment transferred from the Court of Sessions to the Court of Oyer and Terminer for trial. Mr. STANTON states in his affidavit that "He is informed and believes great personal feeling is sought to be excited against this deponent on the part of said VAN ANDEN and his friends; and that for the reason that the Court of Sessions is a Court of local jurisdiction, and the members thereof more or less severally acquainted with the parties mostly interested in the prosecution of this complaint, this deponent is advised that he is more likely to have a fair and impartial trial if the said indictment shall be removed for trial from said Court of Sessions to the Oyer and Terminer branch of this Court." The motion was denied.

The Legislature at its last session granted an act of incorporation to a company for the purpose of establishing steam communication between this City and a point on the great South Bay, (Long Island,) with a capital of $15,000, and the privilege of increasing it to $40,000.

Dr. WM. E. BRENDLE gave bail Saturday in the sum of $1,000 to await the result of argument upon the writ of error in his case.

Personal.

Dr. John Pocock Holmes, a member of the British College of Surgeons and noted for several valuable inventions, died in wretched poverty, a few days ago, at the house of a negro woman in Evansville, Ind. Dr. Holmes was formerly in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Company, and was the intimate friend of Capt. Parry, the Arctic Navigator. In his later years he became blind and paralyzed, and finally died in misery and obscurity.

Mr. Schlegel's new cartoon of the "Landing of Columbus," an excellent sketch in crayon, was sent from Washington for exhibition at the Academy of Design, but arrived too late to be entered. The artist has submitted it to the inspection of the parties in charge of the decorations of the new House of Representatives.

The Army for Utah.

From the St. Louis Democrat, 22d inst.

From reliable sources we have received the following statement of the forces now in Utah, and under orders for that Territory, which is more explicit and correct than any heretofore published: Three batteries of light artillery, one battery of heavy artillery, one regiment (10 companies) foot artillery, one company sappers and miners, one ordnance company, one regiment of cavalry, one regiment of dragoons, and one regiment of infantry, making a total of 76 companies, or about 6,000 men. The troops now in the department of the Platte, and under orders for Utah, will probably be replaced by the two regiments of volunteers. We learn also, that General SMITH is expected in this city on or before Tuesday next, and will depart immediately for Fort Leavenworth, where the order for a movement of the forces will be immediately given.

On the 14th inst., Edgard Castine was shot dead in New-Hanover County, (N. C.,) by his brother-in-law, Noah Lanier. The land of the latter had been sold for debt, and the former purchased it. On preparing to plant his crop Lanier approached him and shot him and his horse dead on the spot and then escaped. Castine, the Wilmington Journal says, was induced to purchase the land in consequence of having paid considerable security money for Lanier.

MONDAY, April 26—A. M.

The foreign trade at the port of New-York for the past week, although moderately enlarged as compared with the previous week, is still much below the business of importation at this time last season. The import entries, including the Dry Goods table in our last paper, amount to $8,843,673, against $4,896,784 the corresponding week last year. The very light movement in Dry Goods is the most remarkable point in the trade. The Export clearances of the week are $1,296,350, against $1,249,668 same week in April, 1857. The direct Export of Specie is $15,250, against $198,200 the same week last year. The Boston steamer carried out nothing for New-York account, as against $600,000 by the corresponding steamer last year. The Specie balance in the New-York Sub-Treasury on Saturday afternoon stood $3,695,071, as against $3,841,577 at the close of the previous week. The Specie amount of the week was altogether a light one, and the change in the Bank average, which stood last Monday $33,193,449, is not expected to be material either way, on the statement to be made up this afternoon. Exchange on London rates 108¼@109 ⅌ cent., with a fair supply of prime bills within this mark. The export demand for Bullion is consequently light, while further receipts from California will be due in a day or two, to swell the already redundant supply in Bank. In the Money Market, during the week past, lenders accepted lower rates of interest, on demand loan and on short paper, than had been known since 1852, and the balances unemployed, both at bank and with private capitalists, are larger, owing to a very general dullness of demand, both from regular trade and the Stock Exchange. We quote call loans 4@5 ⅌ cent.; short-date paper 4@6 ⅌ cent., and choice bills, running beyond ordinary bank practice, are done within 7 ⅌ cent. The exceptions to all these terms are in favor of the borrower. Indeed we hear of occasional negotiations below four per cent. With all the temptation thus held out to the employment of Money, trade moves cautiously, and the prospect of a return to an active demand is, to all immediate appearances, at least three or four months off.

The summary, by months, of the Custom-House returns of the trade at this port for nine months of the current Treasury year, make the Import entries, exclusive of Specie, from July 1, 1857, to March 31, ult. $120,271,600

The week opened with higher prices, and a good measure of speculative feeling. Up to Wednesday the average advance was about 2 ⅌ cent., when the Bull speculators availed of the relative scarcity of cash stock to make good part of their profits. The Bears, on the other hand, finding their deliveries somewhat easier, renewed their contracts, at 10@30@60 days, as they could get them taken at the Board at lower prices. The dealings fell off on Thursday and Friday to quite a moderate list of sales, and the same state of things continued on Saturday, with the exception of Reading shares, contracts in which were taken to the amount of about 5,000 shares, the price closing, as it opened, about 47 ⅌ cent. It will be noticed from the foregoing table of quotations that, for the week, an advance of about 1 ⅌ cent. was established, as compared with Saturday, April 17, and about 2 ⅌ cent. for the fortnight, reckoning from Saturday, April 10. This steady, though not rapid hardening of prices, as the season advances, appears to be, so far, satisfactory to the leading Bull speculators, that very little apparent effort is made, with all the advantages of cheap and easy money, and a moderate supply in stocks on the Street, to push the market to a quicker and more considerable rise. And of the other party of speculators, it may be remarked, from the signs of the last two or three days, that they seemed disposed, particularly in the three New-York Railroad stocks—Central, Erie and Hudson, to have the market weakened by its own inaction. The movement against Reading is kept up with spirit, though no stronger mark of the general confidence in prices could be given than the freedom with which this stock was taken on Saturday. The general market left off inactive, at steady prices.

We understand that the Hon. JAS. M. COOK, Superintendent of the Bank Department, has been in town several days, examining the affairs of the Mechanics' Banking Association, under the law recently passed by the Legislature. He finds that the institution has paid all its debts, both principal and interest, and that there remains $316,000 of valuable assets as the capital of the Bank as now organized, (by authority of the recent act of the Legislature.) This is just equal to one-half the original capital.

We direct the attention of parties interested in Fire Insurance Stocks and other Insurance Scrip, to the card of Mr. GEORGE B. SATTERLEE, No. 42 Exchange-place. He has made himself a regular dealer in these stocks, and will at all times buy or sell at the counter of his office.

There is a proposition pending before the stockholders of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Company to assist the connecting line of the Dayton and Michigan Co. The stockholders in New-York are requested to call at the office of Messrs. BOCKET & KEREELAND to learn the terms and leave their instructions.

The Commercial of Saturday announces that the well-known publishing firm of HARPER & BROTHERS, who suspended during the crisis, have resumed their payments in full.

Some fears are expressed by the Philadelphia papers that the Governor of Pennsylvania may withhold his approval from the act recently passed to modify the penalties of usury.

The Miner's Journal, of Saturday, reports as follows of the Anthracite Coal trade:

"The shipments show an increase of 3,639 tons over last week; the trade, however, is very dull, and prices rule low, so low that no person need fear the risk of buying now.

The trade sums up this week as follows, compared with the corresponding week last year:

	1857.	1858.
Schuylkill—Railroad	32,948	31,574
Schuylkill—Canal	35,649	27,350
Lehigh—Railroad	8,030	9,530
Lehigh—Canal	11,862	2,500
Scranton—South	5,241	10,190
Tons	91,609	83,544

The shipments by the Lehigh Canal continue small—in fact the same dullness prevails in all the different regions, both anthracite and bituminous.

From Scranton the shipments have diminished North, but increased South, making the supply this year, North and South, about the same as last year.

The Delaware and Hudson Canal will be opened on the 4th of May. The freights will open about 15 cents per ton less than they did last year.

A large number of boats have been lying idle at our wharves for two or three weeks, and cannot obtain loading. Freights, which opened at $1 60 and $1 65, have fallen to $1 50 from Schuylkill Haven, and to $1 35 from Pottsville and Port Carbon, to New-York.

The low freights which prevailed from Fort Richmond to the East have driven off a number of vessels, and the rates have advanced a shade from that point. There were however, during the week, an abundance of boats and vessels for the trade.

On the Lehigh Valley, the Jersey Central, and Belvidere and Delaware Railroads, drawbacks have been allowed on the rates formerly charged, which makes the present charges as follows:

From Mauch Chunk to Trenton $1 64
From Mauch Chunk to Elizabethport 2 40
From Mauch Chunk to Morris' Canal Basin at Philipsburg 92

The rates of freight on the Lehigh Canal from Mauch Chunk to Bristol have been reduced 10 cents ⅌ ton. The Company have also resolved to reduce the toll on their Canal from Penn Haven and Mauch Chunk to Easton from 51 to 45 cents; from Rockport, from 54 to 50 cents, and from White Haven, from 64 to 59 cents ⅌ ton, provided the Canal Commissioners will make a similar reduction on the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania Canal. These reductions do not apply to coal delivered on the line, but to the coal passing through the whole line of their works, and intended for a distant market.

The same reduction is made on coal passing into the Morris Canal, provided the Morris Canal Company make a similar reduction in their tolls, which they have already done.
